HUGHES LAUNCHES CAMPAIGN FOR PRESIDENCY IN CONFERENCE WITH NOTED G. O. P. LEADERS

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE MAY MEET ROOSEVELT

Former Justice Declines to Discuss Action of Colonel in His Refusal to Take Nomination

NO DISCUSSION OF POLITICS AT PRESENT

Many Progressives Will Support Jurist if T. R.
Should So Desire, Governor Johnson Says

NEW YORK, June 12.—Efforts to read significance today into a consultation here between Charles Evans Hughes, the Republican presidential candidate, and George W. Wickersham as the mediator—so rumor went—plans to gain the support of Colonel Roosevelt for the Republican candidate, were met by denial from Wickersham, that his visit had any significance at all.

Wickersham's conference with the candidate was held soon after Hughes' arrival here from Washington. Nothing was allowed to leak out as to the nature of their discussion. Wickersham insisted his visit had nothing to do with politics.

"I have no expectation of seeing Colonel Roosevelt and no mission to see him," said Wickersham after emerging from a thirty-five-minute talk with Hughes. "You entirely mistake the object of my visit. I have had no political relations with Mr. Hughes on this occasion. I am heartily and enthusiastically supporting him, of course. I think that the Progressives will give him their support and I do not see how Colonel Roosevelt can fail to do so."

TAFT'S BROTHER CALLS.

Others of many who called upon Hughes in the afternoon included Henry W. Taft, brother of the former President, and William Cary Sanger, former assistant secretary of war under Roosevelt.

Hughes arrived at 7 o'clock this morning and went directly to the Hotel Astor, where he displayed true campaign form by sending word his would see newspaper men at once.

With his secretary, Lawrence H. Green, Hughes slipped out of Washington shortly after midnight so quietly that only a few persons in the station noted his departure. At his suite at the hotel it was said his plans for the visit here were not complete.

MAY MEET COLONEL.

The New York police department has been tipped regarding Hughes' visit and fifty detectives were assigned to guard the candidate on his arrival at the Twenty-third street station and on the drive to his hotel.

Reports that Hughes and Roosevelt would meet and that the colonel's full support of the Republican candidate were discussed in news of the candidate's visit.

Oakland Ad. Club Is Greeted at Portland

PORTLAND, June 12.—Oakland's advertising brigade from the advertising bureau of the Chamber of Commerce was given a hearty welcome in Portland today by the Portland Ad. Club and Chamber of Commerce. The party reached Portland at 11:30 o'clock and was met at the station by the Ad. Club, which acted as hosts for the Oakland contingent at a noonday luncheon at an automobile trip on the Columbia river highway. They are also to act as hosts tonight at a theater and dinner party.

The local delegation was scheduled to leave Portland tonight at 11 p. m. and journey to Tacoma, where an early breakfast is to be given them by the Tacoma Chamber of Commerce. Seattle will be the next stop, followed by North Yakama and Spokane, their destination.

Yesterday was given over to festivities at Salem, where the advertising bureau was introduced to Governor Withycombe and where they were made the guests of the Salem Commercial Club.

Nomination of Hughes
Causes Stock Advance

NEW YORK, June 12.—Wall street received the Hughes nomination in a spirit of optimism today. Advances of a point or more were general when the stock exchange, which was closed when the nomination was made Saturday, opened for the week.

United States Steel was up one at 86 1/2. Studebaker advanced 1-1/8, Baldwin 1-1/4, Reading 1-1/4 and United States Smelting 1.

Minimum Wage Law
Will Be Reargued

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The Supreme Court today ordered a reargument of the case involving the constitutionality of the minimum wage law for women and children. The law gives an industrial commission of the state power for the fixing of minimum rates.

MOOSE LEADERS FOR HUGHES GIVE APPROVAL TO LETTER VON L. MEYER'S STATEMENT

CHICAGO, June 12.—George Von L. Meyer, former cabinet officer and supporter of Colonel Roosevelt for the Republican nomination for President, issued a statement today in which he approved statements made by Charles E. Hughes in his letter of acceptance.

"I believe, with concerted action by all opposed to the present administration we can elect Mr. Hughes our next President," he said.

ST. LOUIS, June 12.—Henry Allen, Kansas Progressive leader here as a newspaper correspondent reporting the Democratic convention, who has announced his support of Mr. Hughes, today expressed belief that Colonel Roosevelt also will take an active part in the Hughes campaign. Allen said former Representative Victor Murdock, chairman of the Progressive National Committee, was most prominently suggested to succeed Colonel Roosevelt as the Progressive standard-bearer if Colonel Roosevelt finally refused the nomination.

ST. LOUIS, June 12.—For Wednesday: Keynote speeches. For Thursday: Speeches and platform. For Friday: More speech-making, one nomination and several scores of second motions and speeches for that nomination.

For Saturday: Beginning at midnight, one roll on a presidential candidate; one roll on, after some more speeches, on a vice-presidential candidate.

"This is exactly what the Democratic convention will do. It didn't require the services of a clairvoyant today to figure out the program. Any one of the delegates struggling today could speak with authority. The one point of interest was exactly who would make the best speech—and on that there was a chance for just a little debate, which chance was fully utilized in the corridor statesmen's talkfest."

Nomination of Fairbanks as Vice-President by the Republicans appears to have made certain the renomination of Marshall, also of Indiana, by the Democrats. Governor Major of Missouri has a carefully nurtured bouquet for the second place job, but the delegates all seem to talk Marshall.

Naturally, the first choice will be Wilson; the platform will be a pointer of pride at the record of the Wilson administration. Former Secretary of State Bryan has promised not to be in the procession, so there will be no display of opinion there.

Another topic of conversation was whether it was going to rain in St. Louis the way it did in Chicago—yesterday having started in by being very moist and oozy.

Other words, Democracy is meeting this week for the first time in sixteen years with an absolute unanimity of ticket and platform in its campaign. Naught but optimism pervades the city—even the citizens themselves are optimistic, since it appears the city is still tilling out just a trifle. It is necessary the Democratic convention could accomplish every bit of business before it in a three-hour session. Of course, this would involve considerable curtailment of oratory, but there would be plenty of time for any action. The only spread why the conclave will be spread is to name the days is because Democracy wants the town of St. Louis Democrats who, contributed to the fund necessary to bring the convention here, to get their money back.

Maybe it is superstition also which will impel the leaders to hold off nominations until after midnight of Friday.

Preliminary to the opening of the convention the members of the national committee met here today to pass upon the final arrangements for the convention, whose 1932 delegates are to meet in the city.

The convention of the party will be held Wednesday, when the temporary chairman will make the keynote speech and the committees will be appointed. The next day the convention will hear the speech of the permanent chairman and addresses of prominent Democrats.

"On Friday there will be a morning session when the platform will be read and adopted and on Friday night we will name the ticket."

National Chairman McCombs held a conference with Senator William J. Stone, who will be the chairman of the resolutions committee, arrived last night with drafts of a number of planks, some of which have been prepared by President Wilson himself. Stone laid the drafts before Chairman McCombs of the national committee and held other conferences with party leaders who will be associated in the final preparation of the declaration of principles as it comes before the Democratic convention.

All the planks as they now stand are subject, of course, to the actions of the resolutions committee, but certain of them which express especially the sentiments of President Wilson are sure to be incorporated practically as they were brought by Senator Stone.

Generally the object of the platform builders is to present a consistent and logical picture of the country's condition.

GERMANS STRIKE
FIERCELY ONLY TO BE HURLED BACK

PARIS, June 12.—Repeated and violent German attacks directed at the trenches west of Vaux were completely repulsed, said the French war office statement today.

An artillery struggle of the utmost violence is in progress on the Souville and Tavennes sectors.

West of Soissons the French artillery destroyed the German works, one shell causing an explosion within the German lines, apparently having struck an ammunition depot.

GERMANS CLAIM GAINS
ON TWO FRONTS

BERLIN, June 12.—Russian forces attempted to advance northeast of Buzacek, Galicia, and were repulsed, the war office announced today. More than 1300 Russians were captured. The statement says:

"Eastern front: German and Austro-Hungarian forces repulsed Russian detachments which were advancing northeast of Buzacek, on the Strupa. More than 1200 Russians remained in our hands. Other-where the situation of the German troops is unchanged."

"Western front: In the Champagne north of Perthes, German reconnoitering detachments penetrated, French positions and after a short fight took three officers and more than 100 men prisoners, captured four machine guns and returned to their own trenches in accordance with our plans."

Japan Sends More
Battalions to Peking

TOKIO, June 12.—The Japanese government is sending two more battalions of troops to Tien Tsin and Peking, it was learned today.

Carranzistas Capture
Four Bandit Leaders

LAREDO, Texas, June 12.—Carranzistas and Mexican bandits engaged in a battle yesterday at Sanchez, Mexico, twenty miles south of Nuevo Laredo, which resulted in the capture of four bandit leaders. The outlaws were a part of Luis de la Rosa's band, according to accounts of the battle which reached the border.

Two armed Japanese were arrested near Piedras Negras by de facto troops, charged with being identified with bandits.

Continued to bring Americans and other foreigners to the border. The refugees said they were leaving the country owing to serious political conditions.

Adeline Mills Easton
Dead in San Mateo

SAN MATEO, June 12.—Mrs. Adeline Mills Easton, grandmother of Charles Templeton Crocker and Mrs. Jennie Templeton Whitman, died at the home of her son, Ansel M. Easton, near here today. She was 86 years old and one of the pioneer women of California.

Mrs. Whitman arrived from New York in time to be at the bedside.

CITY GAINS $17,298,000 IN FACTORIES

Census Report Shows Oakland Makes Big Stride $2,000,000 Additional Is Added Since Statis- tics Were Made

A gain in factory investments in five years of $17,298,000 is Oakland's record, according to the factory census just completed by the United States bureau of commerce, made public today. This census takes in the factory conditions for 1914 and a part of 1915, and was compiled by Director Sam Rogers of the census bureau and Statistician William M. Stewart. The census does not take in the new Chevrolet plant, the Shredded Wheat plant, or other plants since brought to Oakland, which, according to the estimate of the manufacturers' committee of the Chamber of Commerce, mean about $2,000,000 additional and raising the increase to date to more than $21,000,000.

The capital invested in factories in Oakland in 1914, according to the government figures, was $36,411,000. In 1909 the capital invested was $19,113,000. The average capital per establishment in 1914 was $84,000, and $43,000 in 1909.

THE FIGURES.

The cost of materials used in 1914 in the Oakland factories, according to the government figures, was $14,599,000, as against a total of $11,847,000 in 1909, this making a total increase in materials utilized of $2,752,000, or 23.6 per cent. The value of the products of the Oakland factories in 1914 was set at $28,522,000, as against $22,543,000 five years before, the increase being $5,979,000, or 27.7 per cent.

The wages paid were estimated by the government statisticians at $7,887,000, and five years before $6,618,000, showing an increase in Oakland payroll in five years of $1,269,000, or 19.2 per cent.

Since these figures were taken by the federal experts, Oakland in co-operation with the manufacturers' committee of the Chamber of Commerce, several important new factories have been started in this city, including the Shredded Wheat plant, representing an investment of at least $500,000; the new Albers mill, representing slightly more than this amount; the Chevrolet plant, representing also a quarter of a million, and numerous other factories, besides the increased plants at the different shipyards.

OTHER INCREASES.

The sum of $2,000,000, it is declared by the experts now working on the Chamber of Commerce survey, estimate of these known increases, and does not take in the projected textile plant in East Oakland, the new aluminum products plant, or the bulk of the large projected lumber mills at the United Iron Works taken over recently by the Union Iron Works, which has applied for a lease on the Alameda side of the city to develop its larger plant. The projected improvements at the Alaska Packers' plant are also included in this $2,000,000 estimate.

"The census of 1914," says the report, "like that of 1909, with reference to manufactures, excluded the neighborhood industries, and took account only of establishments connected with the factory system. In the last census, also, as in that for 1909, statistics were not collected for establishments having no products for the census year valued at less than $500, except that reports were taken for establishments idle during the census year, or which began operation during that year, and whose products for such reason were valued at less than $500."

The word "establishment" as used in the census report may mean more than one mill or plant, provided they are owned or controlled and operated by a single individual, partnership, corporation, or other owner or owners, and are located in the same town or city.

POPULATION GAIN.

The population of Oakland at the census of 1910 was 150,174, and it is estimated that it was 183,000 on July 1, 1914.

In the order of their importance, from a percentage standpoint, the increases for the several items ran as follows: Capital, 50.5 per cent; primary horsepower, 33.5 per cent; salaries, 30.7 per cent; number of establishments, 22.9 per cent; value added by manufacture, 23.8 per cent; value of products, 27.7 per cent; materials, 26.6 per cent; wages, 12.2 per cent; wage earners, 11.4 per cent, and proprietors and firm members, 4.5 per cent.

CONDITION IN MEXICO CAUSES RENEWAL OF ALARM IN WASHINGTON

President's Note Will Refuse to Grant Carranza's Request to Withdraw U.S. Troops and Will Cite New Outrages TEXANS KILL THREE RAIDERS

SAN ANTONIO, June 12.—Private Lee Saunders was shot in the leg and hand when two Mexicans fired on a patrol of three Americans near Hachita, New Mexico, Sunday, Lieutenant-Colonel Waterman reported to General Funston today. Waterman did not know whether the Mexicans were Carranzistas or Villistas. He sent a detachment of cavalry to chase them.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Secretary of War Baker announced this afternoon he had ordered 1000 additional coast artillery and the engineer corps at Washington barracks here to proceed at once to the Mexican border for patrol duty. This action was taken following the receipt of additional news of a disturbing character.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Increasing excitement and anti-American feeling throughout Northern Mexico is described in today's despatch to the State Department. In many cases, it was said at the department, that Carranza appears to be indifferent as to what is going on. Details of the reports were not made public.

Officials made no attempt to conceal their anxiety over the situation. All despatches were read by Secretary Lansing and the more important were sent to the White House. Equally disquieting reports are reaching the Department of Justice from along the border.

The President's answer to the latest Carranza note demanding troop withdrawal or "explanation of their presence in view of their present idleness," will go to the first chief this week—before Wilson is renominated at St. Louis.

The note will politely but flatly refuse a withdrawal, or even a rearrangement of American troops. It virtually was completed today. It is very long.

Santa Ysabel
Murderers Unpunished.

Among reasons cited for not withdrawing troops now, the President will emphasize the fact that the murderers of Americans at Santa Ysabel not only have not been punished, but have not been apprehended. It will recite, also, recent raids on American soil.

Emphasis also will be laid on recently received consular reports that the situation in northern Mexico requires American troops there in view of the attitude of natives toward other foreigners as well as Americans. There was every indication in official circles here today that the note would be "for campaign consumption," as well as to leave no doubt in Carranza's mind that the United States will brook no more possibility of future troubles that imperil and endanger American lives or embarrass the government in any way.

Attempt to Burn
Bridge Frustrated

LAREDO, Tex., June 12.—Three Mexican raiders were reported killed and five captured by citizens and vigilantes following the raiders' attempt to burn the International and Great Northern railroad trestle at Webb, Tex., north of Laredo.

A posse of ranchmen reported engaging the raiders between Webb and Cactus and killing three. There were no American casualties. Cactus is about ten miles north of Webb, on the I. and G. N. Two bandits were captured at the bridge, one of them a captain, according to reports. Two others were brought to Laredo under heavy guard. Another raider is reported to be in jail at Webb. Several truck loads of American regulars and Texas militia left here immediately for the scene of the raid and spread out, hoping to head off the Mexicans on their way back to the border.

Chihuahua Scene
of Demonstration

CHIHUAHUA, June 12.—Mexicans thronged the streets here today, anti-American meetings being held in various parts of the city. However, the crowds were orderly and in no instance did threatened riots develop.

The demonstration began with a parade through the principal streets to the military cuartel, where General Trevino Jacinto, in a brief address, thanked the people for the patriotic display. For half an hour the crowd cheered and shouted of "Throw out the Americans!" were repeated.

At some meetings speakers urged citizens to emulate "noble Chihuahuense cadets," opposing the advance of foreign invaders with dead bodies, if necessary.

General Trevino announced that any arrangements made between General Carranza and General Gavira would be supported, and disclaimed having said that Gavira had no authority to enter into an agreement.

High officials of the government here have begun to estimate available Mexican forces in the event of armed hostilities. It was said that in addition to his present command General Trevino has subject to his call in the State of Chihuahua alone 50,000 men, all veterans of the various revolutions of last several years.

Despite the small critical situation here the rumors against the bandits is being pursued actively.

SWEDISH STEAMER LOST

LONDON, June 12.—A Reuter despatch from Malmoe, Sweden, says that the Swedish steamer Emmy has been destroyed by a mine off Fisterba. The despatch says that one of the crew was killed by the explosion and four others were drowned. The Emmy was of 498 tons, built in 1872.

Success of Drive
Surpasses Expectations

PETROGRAD, June 12.—The similarity between General Brusiloff's advance in the past week and the Russian drive against the Austrians at the beginning of the war is generally commented upon here. One difference, however, is pointed out. General Brusiloff's initial blow has been considerably more effective and the retreat of the Austrians before it more precipitate than during the initial events of 1914.

The net result of the week's operation has surpassed the expectations of the most ardent believers in the southern leaders' ability. With up to 72,000 prisoners (the latest official statement) now placed in the number of prisoners at about 108,000 and immense booty, about the communications around Czernowicz and Rastawka and those in the neighborhood of Czernowicz seriously threatened, there is immense relief among the military and civil population.

The military authorities regard the piercing of the Austrian line along the Stripa as perhaps of greater importance than breaking through at Lutsk. Assuming that the Austrians, even with the aid of the Germans, are unable to push the Russians back themselves must fall back along the whole line northward, and in order to maintain a formidable front, it is pointed out that an orderly retreat with such gigantic armies is an extremely difficult task. Once they are on the move and with the Russians pounding at their rear, it is contended, the great drive of 1914 through Poland and Galicia is likely to be repeated.

At the same time the military critics warn the people that the great trial of strength between General Brusiloff and General von Linsingen is yet to come, and that it remains to be seen if the latter is able really to strike back effectively.

They add that if the Russians succeed in holding what they have already gained, the Austrians plans for the summer campaign have doubtless been effectively smashed.

General Brusiloff's promptness in seizing advantage and following up the enemy forces is regarded as the highest evidence of the completeness of the Russian preparations. The pursuit has been kept up day after day.

Democratic Platform Will Approve Wilson's Policies Document to Answer Charges Made by Justice Hughes President Personally Approves of Salient Planks

crete record of party achievements, as a platform in itself, to accept the challenges of the Republican platform and meet the incidents contained in Hughes' telegram of acceptance of the Republican nomination.

DEFENSE OF PARTY.
The principal planks as they stood when Senator Stone went into conference with Chairman McCombs may be authoritatively outlined as follows:

Foreign relations.—Pointing out the unprecedented world conditions brought about by the war, it will be contended that President Wilson, while keeping the United States at peace, has maintained a neutrality both "strict and honest." The diplomatic achievements of the President in prevailing upon Germany to pledge herself to cease submarine warfare and in violation of international law will be pointed out as one of the potential reasons why the Democratic administration should be continued in power.

Mexican.—The Mexican situation, presented frankly and fully from the viewpoint of the administration, will be rectified, with claims of justification for the administration's course as best adapted to conserve peace with the neighboring republic.

The course of the administration will be held to be one in aid of a distracted and distressed people torn by internal strife in the progress of their own destiny. The United States, a new friend of Mexico, it will be contended, is not only directly disinterested in Mexico's aid and with full respect and consideration for her sovereignty.

DEFENSE OF NATION.

Preparedness.—This will be treated under two separate heads, one dealing with what already has been accomplished and the other with that which is in the making. It will be pointed out that the party has met new world conditions with a preparedness for national defense by pointing to the advanced stage of preparedness of the navy, both in ships and men; legislation already enacted for the enlargement of the navy academy and administration plans for rapid and balanced enlargement of the nation's forces for defense at sea. It will be contended that more probably will be done during three years of Democratic administration than had been accomplished for many preceding years under Republican rule. The enlargement of the regular army and the reorganization of the National Guard, with provisions bringing it more thoroughly under federal control, will be cited among the measures of achievement for national defense already accomplished.

Financial.—The federal reserve act, reorganizing the currency system of the country to a basis calculated to provide for the expansion and contraction of currency to meet the fluctuating courses of trade and to bulwark the financial structure of the nation against times of panic, will be pointed out as one of the foremost achievements of the party and an act which the Republicans unsuccessfully dealt with for many years. Pending legislation for a system of rural credits also will be cited in that connection.

FOR LOWER TARIFF.

Tariff.—Reduction of tariff duties on a scale which the Democratic platform makers contend would be a normal income for the support of the government in normal times will be pointed out as a party achievement. The enactment of an income tax will be presented as one of the party measures to bring income to the support of the government while dividing the burden according to the ability of the individual to bear it; the creation of a tariff commission for scientific study and readjustment of duties to protect American industry against the flood of European products after the fighting millions turn to the pursuits of peace; the shipping bill now pending, to create an American merchant marine to relieve the commerce of the country from the lack of ocean transportation and still making provision to withdraw government operation from

MAY 'KIDNAP' PARTY AFTER PROGRESSIVES

ST. LOUIS, June 12.—One of the greatest kidnapping enterprises in history was discovered in St. Louis today. The object of the effort is the four-year old child—the Progressive party. Democratic organization leaders are the would-be kidnapers.

Events in Chicago and Oyster Bay Saturday have changed the color of this week's convention and instead of being a perfunctory ratification meeting, it may turn out to be a truly thrilling affair. Quiet conferences among Democratic committee men Sunday night resulted in a determination on a new program.

Leaders have counseled with Washington by wire in the brief time the plan has been forming and the White House is said to be prepared to back the effort. Swift developments since Saturday may have a marked bearing on the Democratic platform, although one of the men busiest in the kidnapping scheme declared today that the platform on which Senator Stone and President Wilson have been working probably will serve the desired purpose. Various leaders were evasive when asked about it today.

National Chairman McCombs, said to be the actual originator, faintly admitted he was working with others to bring it to a head.

competition with private capital when the latter is ready to undertake the enterprise, also will be presented as reasons for continuing the party in power.

The platform will contend that legislation at home and diplomatic negotiations abroad have lent a strong stimulus to American foreign trade, and that as a result industrial prosperity has been greatly enhanced and foreign trade established on a firmer basis than ever before.

COUNTER-CHARGE.

The platform will charge that the Republican platform is little more than an attack upon achievements, offering no constructive policy to take the place of the measures assailed. For that reason it will appeal for popular support for the Democratic administration.

Senator Stone, because of his position as chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, is generally accepted as speaking with the authority of the President on these phases of the platform. It was declared today that no complete platform draft had been made. Beside the planks framed by President Wilson, many have been submitted by administration leaders in Congress and others throughout the country interested in the success of the party. Some may be added as the result of the deliberations of the resolutions committee or the convention, but substantial features of the platform are practically certain to be as outlined in the foregoing.

Very few of the delegates have arrived in St. Louis as yet. The lobbies of the Jefferson and Planters hotels have been stripped of their moveable furniture and in these vast spaces there are scattered a few groups of Democrats and several thousand newspapermen. The delegates interview the newspapermen; the newspapermen interview the delegates. Things have perked up a little with the arrival of some of the pillars about which Democratic contention have been built these many years.

Charles F. Murphy of New York and Roger Sullivan of Illinois were busy being pointed out. So was Secretary of the Navy Daniels, Indian Commissioner Sells, Senators Ollie James, Walsh and Stone. The latter proved most fascinating to observers, for he always was just disappearing around a corner or mysteriously appearing from nowhere, just as he has done at half a dozen of these quadrilateral gatherings.

Contributors who gave $5 or more to the $100,000 fund that brought the convention to St. Louis were made happy today by an announcement that they would get tickets to at least one of the sessions. The association which raised the fund has 2300 tickets and they will be awarded on proportion to the amounts subscribed. Herebefore tickets have been given only to contributors of $50 or more.

The thirty ushers in the railroad station who counted upon tips to swell their receipts, today counted up the receipts so far and found that the tips are being paid in dollars, nickels and even pennies. The ushers' room was the gleamiest place in St. Louis. The convention managers are hearing from delegates on every hand suggestions that a four-day session is too long for a convention which would be held in a hotel. With the presidential nomination entirely settled upon and only scattering suggestions of other names than Vice-President Marshall for the second place, some delegates cannot understand why nominations cannot be reached before Friday night. They are being told by the leaders that a convention has more purposes for the party than nominations and adoption of a platform. It brings all the leaders together in one assembly to plan the campaign.

The convention managers realize the necessity of keeping the delegates entertained. It was understood that at some time during the speech-making William J. Bryan might be invited to address the convention on party achievements. Today there still were no indications that Bryan intends to take part in the actual proceedings by proxy.

BRYAN FOR WILSON.

Bryan, however, who his friends say, will support President Wilson, is expected to appear before the resolutions committee at open hearings to urge adoption of an open peace and prohibition and other questions he advocates.

While Vice-President Marshall is everywhere the leading figure in discussion of the second place, some other bums are lively, but they are regarded as favorite son affairs, not likely to disturb the harmony program when the nominations come along.

Henry Morgenthau, former ambassador to Turkey, who resigned to go into the campaign for President Wilson, is expected to appear before the resolutions committee at open hearings to urge adoption of an open peace and prohibition and other questions he advocates.

Arthur V. Wilson, national committee man from Nebraska, was brooding the candidacy of Governor John H. Morehead of Nebraska, who led the fight against Bryan in the State primaries for selection of delegates. Mulen said today the entire delegation was for Morehead.

SULLIVAN INACTIVE.

Senator Thomas Taggart said today that the vice-presidential candidacy of Roger Sullivan, although it has the support of the Illinois delegation, probably will not be placed before the convention. Sullivan, however, said today that he does not take the question of his nomination seriously and is expected to try to prevent it.

Senator Taggart said he expected the names of Governor Major of Missouri and Senator Owen of Oklahoma to be presented, as well as those of Governor Morehead and Secretary Baker, but predicted an effort to have the withdrawal of all names except that of Vice-President Marshall, whose nomination is expected by acclamation.

While some of Montana's delegates were planning to nominate Governor Sam V. Stewart of Montana for vice-president others declared he was not in sympathy with the movement and would, upon his arrival tomorrow take steps to prevent presentation of his name.

Because the Republicans have chosen their vice-presidential nominee, Charles W. Fairbanks, from Indiana, delegates from several States who have favorable disposition toward Vice-President Marshall of Indiana and substituting Governor Major as President Wilson's running mate, today swung to Marshall.

Representatives of the newly organized women's suffrage and the National American Woman Suffrage association raised demands for two widely different actions on their issue upon Democratic leaders. The national organization, headed by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, insisted upon a declaration of the Democratic party platform, while the women's party representatives, through its chairman, Miss Ann Martin, declared that unless the resolutions committee demands immediately adoption of the Susan B. Anthony amendment, her resolution will be offered to the convention. There is no use to delay, Miss Martin declared today.

An effort will be made to have Justice Hughes declared unequivocally for suffrage in his speech of acceptance.

WILSON APPROVES PLANS.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Democratic leaders today were departing for the party convention at St. Louis with President Wilson's final suggestions in mind. The President also planned to leave Washington for West Point, where he will deliver an address to graduates of the military academy tomorrow, returning immediately. Secretary Baker is strongly urging him to accept invitations being received in large numbers. A committee of the Baltimore Chamber of Commerce expects to call on him next week with a request to speak before the National Grain Dealers' Association at Baltimore in September.

All arrangements are completed to enable the President to keep in close touch with the deliberations of the St. Louis convention. Special telephone and telegraphic wires have been installed between the Jefferson hotel in St. Louis and the White House.

TAMMANY DEPARTS.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Between 400 and 500 delegates and others constituted the Tammany Hall "delegation" to the Democratic national convention which left here for St. Louis on three trains by way of different routes. The number of men Tammany sent to the Baltimore convention four years ago will be small, for there were about 2000 at Baltimore.

Those who left here on an Erie train were headed by Thomas J. Foley, secretary of the Tammany committee, and other company which traveled by way of the Pennsylvania railroad, while Thomas McAvoy headed those who went by the New York Central.

HUGHES BEGINS CAMPAIGN AT ONCE

Hughes told reporters who met him in the lobby of the Hotel Hamilton that he would begin his campaign at once.

"Will you see Roosevelt?" he was asked.

"I have nothing to say about politics," Hughes replied.

Hughes and his secretary made the trip from Washington in lower berth, traveling as any private citizen might, and the candidate was unrecognized by passengers. The colored porter, who recognized his star passenger, grinned broadly and kept his discovery discreetly to himself.

IN THE MOVIES.
At the station Hughes picked up his bag and with an umbrella crooked over his arm made his way through the ferry. On the boat his presence was made known when "movie" men rushed up and requested him to be a willing victim. He showed that he was willing to be a willing victim, where the light was good and moving about as the picture men directed.

William R. Wilcox, former chairman of the public service board, joined Hughes at the hotel and made the trip to the hotel with him.

Travis Whitney, member of the public service commission, a close friend of Hughes when the latter was governor, talked with the candidate for some time in the hotel suite.

"I can't say anything on that just now," replied the candidate with a smile.

"Will you see Colonel Roosevelt?" "I can't say anything on that just now," Hughes said. He was in high good humor and evidently is overjoyed at his return to active politics in the roll of Republican presidential nominee.

He wore a gray business suit and a gray tie, appearing well groomed. He was in high good humor and evidently is overjoyed at his return to active politics in the roll of Republican presidential nominee.

"Yes, it was coming back home," he replied. "It seems natural to be here and to see so many of my friends."

"Can you tell us what the thrills are in being a candidate for the greatest job on earth?" he was asked.

"I can only say that there are certain circumstances under which a matter of duty is extremely clear and leaves no grounds for hesitancy," he replied.

"There is no question in this situation as to what I should do and in my announcement to the country I endeavored to make my attitude clear."

"I have not received the formal notification of the nomination and I do not know just when it will be made."

Half a dozen camera men asked Hughes to pose at the Astor Hotel today and he readily agreed. They took about a dozen snaps each and then he said:

"Haven't you got enough boys?" "Not yet, judge. Just one more now," replied a photographer. "Please give us another smile."

The request was unnecessary as Hughes was all smiles today. He posed again and then walked briskly toward his rooms, waving to the newspaper men.

MOORE SICK, JOHNSON SAYS.

CHICAGO, June 12.—"We are in a difficult position, but we are used to it," Governor Hiram Johnson of California said today.

Johnson said that he was in a conceivable situation which may arise. Associated with him in looking after the President's interests will be Senators James Hughes and Stone and Representatives Doremus and Fredrick W. Stickman, publicity manager of the Democratic campaign committee.

The President completed the tentative draft of platform planks in which he is particularly interested yesterday, following conferences with various Democratic leaders. Cabinet members already have sent to St. Louis drafts of planks relating to matters involving their respective departments.

Emphasis was laid today on the fact that President Wilson made no effort to dictate the exact phraseology of the platform to be considered by the platform committee headed by Senator Stone.

NOT TO TAKE STUMP.
Although determined not to take the stump in the sense of making any organized campaign tours between now and election, President Wilson is preparing to make set speeches in a number of different localities during the coming months.

On the last day of the present month the President expects to address the New York Press Club, and between now and October he will make speeches at Detroit, at Lincoln's birthplace in Kentucky, and at the dedication of a new irrigation project at Albuquerque, N. M. His advisers are strongly urging him to accept invitations being received in large numbers. A committee of the Baltimore Chamber of Commerce expects to call on him next week with a request to speak before the National Grain Dealers' Association at Baltimore in September.

All arrangements are completed to enable the President to keep in close touch with the deliberations of the St. Louis convention. Special telephone and telegraphic wires have been installed between the Jefferson hotel in St. Louis and the White House.

formia summed up the Progressive situation that way today prior to his departure for New York to confer with Colonel Roosevelt.

Johnson reiterated that he would not accept the Presidential nomination on the Bull Moose ticket. He indicated his belief that the Progressive party was a mighty sick organism, but had a chance of surviving.

"I am convinced that Colonel Roosevelt was prompted by the highest motives in declining the Progressive nomination," Johnson said. "But it leaves us in a hard position. We are used to fighting. We will continue the fight on the Pacific coast."

"Many of our party will support Hughes if it is the Colonel's desire, but they will not do it enthusiastically."

Johnson was the last of the Bull Moose chieftains remaining in Chicago.

Three propositions will come before the Bull Moose national committee at their meeting here late in June, probably on the 25th. The first is the continuation of the party with a new Presidential candidate; the second is to work for Progressive principles irrespective of party; and the third, acceptance, for the present, of the Republican candidates. The date of the committee meeting may be changed as June 25, the date for the call, is on Sunday.

George W. Perkins, who led the fight for conciliation with the Republicans, left Chicago without making a statement. It was rumored he had told Chairman Hill of the Republican national committee that he would not join for Hughes. He did not pledge any funds to carry on the Progressive fight.

National Chairman Victor Murdock of the Progressives, played at Roosevelt's refusal to run and at the Hicks' refusal to join the Progressive committee meeting. He is said to have determined not to come to Chicago.

Raymond Robbs, chairman of the Progressive national convention, and Harold Ickes, Progressive national committee man, announced today that they will leave tomorrow or Wednesday for Oyster Bay to talk over the party situation with Colonel Roosevelt. Ickes said the national committee "was at all sea when it met Saturday night."

In a joint statement issued today Hobbs and Ickes said:

"Wide and loyal Progressives will wait until their national committee reports June 18 before taking individual action in the present crisis. Let us not be misled by the tactics of a few counselors. The needs of the country demand judgment as well as enthusiasm."

THE BRITISH VIEW.

LONDON, June 12.—The morning newspapers today devote considerable space to the news of the Republican national convention held in Chicago and in several cases print biographies of a column long of Charles E. Hughes, the nominee for President. The articles include considerable discussion of the probable attitude of Colonel Hughes toward the European war.

"The Republican party conducted its convention with sagacity and discipline," says the Times. "The campaign between Mr. Hughes and President Wilson is the most important and most bitter since the civil war, for behind the immediate issues involved lies the whole problem of the future attitude of the United States toward the largest questions of international policy."

The delegation is divided with eight for W. H. Thompson, a Bryan supporter, and eight for Judge W. H. Aldrich, who opposes Bryan.

On motion of Secretary Roosevelt, the national committee today selected Committee Chairman A. McLean of North Carolina, W. R. King of Oregon and Arthur W. Miller of Nebraska to draft resolutions on the death of Thomas H. Hughes, former secretary of the national committee.

At Michigan headquarters it was announced that Edmund C. Shields, former state chairman, would second the renomination of Marshall. Shields was a schoolmate of the Vice-President.

Hat Pin Punctures Heart of Woman

DENISON, Iowa, June 12.—Her chest and lung and lining of the heart penetrated by a rusty pin, Mrs. John Heffert, living near this city, is alive and recovering from a most unusual accident. Mrs. Heffert slipped and fell against a rusty hat pin. It entered her breast between two ribs, passed through the left lung and two ribs, and out of her chest. With suffering greatly from the injury she is now apparently on the road to recovery.

President Discusses Politics at Capital

WASHINGTON, June 12.—President Wilson talked politics today with several congressional leaders, and was in communication with Democratic leaders at St. Louis for the national convention.

Mates considered it altogether unlikely that he would consider his conditional refusal to head a third ticket. He has not yet made it clear whether or not he will support the candidacy of Mr. Hughes.

Colonel's Lady De-e-lighted! Glad He's Out of Politics, at Last

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., June 12.—Mrs. Roosevelt is de-e-e-lightful.

She hopes it is true that her husband is "out of politics."

"She looked like the happiest woman in the world as she rode by the Colonel's side as they started out for a horseback ride across the country from Sagamore Hill today."

She was smiling and laughing and chattering like a school girl. It is an open secret among her friends that she has never revealed in the limelight, nor has she always been reconciled to divide the public as politics demanded.

Yesterday the Colonel was ridden ahead and she behind. Today they rode side by side. The Colonel did not appear very talkative. He declined to see reporters.

GLYNN IS CHOSEN TO BE KEYNOTER

ST. LOUIS, June 12.—Preliminary to the Democratic national convention were virtually completed today with the meeting of the national committee which formally selected former Governor Glynn of New York as temporary chairman to deliver the keynote speech, chose temporary officers and disposed of details.

The retirement of Chairman William P. McCombs brought about a remarkable demonstration in the committee, which gave cheers and a vote of thanks to him. As the committee members cheered the delegates in the hotel lobby joined in the demonstration.

Replying to the tribute of the convention, Chairman Glynn said: "I cannot say how deeply I am touched by your devotion and I leave you with great regret and will always cherish the memory of the pleasant associations I have had with you."

Chairman Glynn's letter of his arrangements for the convention was read and the convention hall will be completed tonight.

Chairman McCombs appointed Senator Thomas Taggart of Indiana, National Committee Chairman Norman E. Mac of New York and National Committee Chairman William Sapp of Kansas as subcommittee to hear both sides of the Texas contest for national committee man and report to the new national committee, which will meet after the last session of the convention.

The contest which W. P. Jarrett of Hawaii has entered against the present national committee man, John H. Wilson, also was referred to the new national committee. Wilson will continue to serve until the new committee has been organized.

Members of the Nebraska delegation expect a fight when it meets to select its member of the resolutions committee. The delegation is divided with eight for W. H. Thompson, a Bryan supporter, and eight for Judge W. H. Aldrich, who opposes Bryan.

On motion of Secretary Roosevelt, the national committee today selected Committee Chairman A. McLean of North Carolina, W. R. King of Oregon and Arthur W. Miller of Nebraska to draft resolutions on the death of Thomas H. Hughes, former secretary of the national committee.

Hughes Will March in "Preparedness" Line

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Charles E. Hughes promised last night to march in the preparedness parade to be held here Wednesday, provided business does not take him out of town on that day. President Wilson, in response to an invitation from the arrangements committee, already has promised to head the parade to review it from a stand in front of the White House, and later deliver an address on "America First."

The demonstration, in which many other high officials are expected to take part, will be the principal feature of the capital's celebration of Flag day. It was arranged by industrial, religious and social organizations and government employees have been granted a half-holiday in order to march.

WOMEN'S DEBATE ENDS SESSION

Stormy Session Marks Close of Post-Progressive Convention.

By GEORGIA C. ORMSBY.
(Special Despatch to The TRIBUNE)

CHICAGO, June 12.—As women were in Chicago in advance of the great political conventions and fired the first gun in the proceedings, so did they remain and fire a parting shot. At the close of the Progressive convention it was a no-nosed that the women of the party would meet in the ballroom of the Auditorium hotel for the purpose of forming a national organization, a woman's camp.

Miss Alice Carpenter, president of the Roosevelt League of New York City, opened the meeting. Miss Harriet Vittum of Chicago was elected temporary chairman. Miss Ingram of Philadelphia moved that the National League of Progressive Women be formed. It was seconded.

From many sources it was learned that the women began a war of words to have a hearing. In order to press their rights they attempted to tell the chairman they were president or secretary of a committee of such and such important clubs. The chairman was mentally confused and had no knowledge of parliamentary law.

Miss Ingram, speaking to her motion, said such an organization was needed by Eastern women. Her whole idea was to give the best service to the nation through the Progressive party. Mrs. Fairbanks, not from Indiana, said: "Men have no notion of blauding us or depriving us of our privileges. In the Progressive party women have been given an unprecedented chance and the formation of a separate women's party would be an affront to the men."

Miss Carpenter rose to the affirmative, saying men have no use for women without initiative. She all around waiting to be dictated to.

Dr. Davis of New York, the first woman to serve in the cabinet of the mayor of New York City, favored working side by side with men.

Professor Lillian Martin of Stanford University spoke against the motion, while one "Mrs. Wise" from Oakland, Miss Beattie Wood, told them of the value of organization and the necessity of a definite plan. Women were lined up in factions when debate was at its highest. A motion to adjourn was carried amid great confusion.

Judging from results the meeting was evidently not programmed.

Five Mentioned for G. O. P. Chairmanship

CHICAGO, June 12.—Five names were mentioned as possible candidates for chairman of the Republican National Committee and manager of the Hughes and Fairbanks campaign in the political discussions of the subject by Republican leaders here today prior to their leaving for their homes.

The names mentioned were: Frank H. Hitchcock of New York, Ralph E. Williams of Oregon, Joseph B. Keating of Indiana, Fred C. Tanner of New York and Charles B. Warren of Michigan.

Ralph E. Williams is national committeeman from Oregon, which was one of the first states to declare for Hughes. Fred C. Tanner is Republican state chairman of New York and was an active supporter of Hughes. Joseph B. Keating of Indiana is a lifelong friend and close political associate of C. W. Fairbanks. Charles B. Warren is national committeeman from Michigan.

HOME RULE PLAN BELIEVED CERTAIN

Official Report of Party Meeting
Details Lloyd-George Ideas.

LONDON, June 12.—The official report of the Irish party meeting states that the suggestions of David Lloyd George, which may be regarded as governmental, are:

"Immediate inauguration of home rule."

"The introduction in Parliament immediately of the amending bill, as a war emergency act."

"During the period of the war the Irish members are to remain at Westminster. Six Ulster counties shall be left under the Imperial government."

"Immediately after the war an Imperial conference shall be called, with representatives from all the British dominions, to consider the government of the empire, including Ireland."

"Immediately afterward, or during the war emergency interval, a permanent settlement of all the great outstanding problems shall be proceeded with."

The meeting protested against a continuance of martial law in Ireland and demanded that prisoners undergoing servitude in connection with the uprising in Ireland be treated as prisoners of war.

Two Bandit Rumors Reported Unfounded

MERCED, Texas, June 12.—Reports that thirty horsemen had crossed the Rio Grande south of Donna are reported to be untrue by Captain Haines and Lieutenant Glass of Troop C. Third Cavalry, who made a night investigation last night and returned here early today. They found no trace of bandits.

Reports that American soldiers engaged with Mexicans across the river at Progresso on Friday are also reported to be erroneous. The report is said to be founded on the fact that Carranza soldiers were chasing bandits on the Mexican side of the river.

COWBOYS ESCAPE

LAREDO, Texas, June 12.—George Conover, an American cowboy captured by Mexican bandits yesterday when he and Arthur Meyers trailed the marauders who raided the T. A. Coleman ranch at San Samuel, arrived in Laredo late last night after a thirty-mile trip on foot, after his escape from the Mexicans. He said the band which sought to rattle eighty head of horses across the border was composed of five Mexicans and two Japanese. The Japanese, he said, were later captured by de facto government troops. Conover and Meyers attempted to follow the Mexicans making away with the horses and capture the animals to stampede. Conover said he was treated well by the Mexicans, but the two Japanese wanted to hang him.

The bandits left Conover and Meyers at a secluded place, telling them to wait. The Americans took flight, hiding in the brush when the Mexicans came back to look for them. The searchers passed within fifteen yards of the refugees.

AUSTRIAN ARMIES FLEE IN DISORDER

day relentlessly, with no signs of diminution. Details of the fighting are still lacking, except for meager accounts filtering in from wounded officers who have arrived at Kiev and Odessa. Centers of excitement in the trenches and villages, where the reserves were stationed, when the word of the proposed advance came on Saturday, June 3, are told of by a captain of a Siberian regiment. When possible, religious services were held.

DESPERATE FIGHTING. "Next day," he continued, "after a tremendous bombardment, the first, second, and even the third, line of Austrian trenches were easily taken. Our losses were light. But in the strongest positions in the rear the enemy made a desperate stand with machine guns, bombs and previously prepared mines. Here we suffered most heavily. It was necessary to storm the positions. This our men did with splendid courage and determination."

"As soon as we came within reach with the bayonet the Austrians quit, whole companies throwing down their arms and begging to have no heart for bayonet work."

"On we went, leaving heaps of dead behind. Sometimes we had to take defensive positions against counter-attacks. My corps withstood eight in succession, repulsing them, and then charging again. Through the bushes in their front our cavalry poured in some instances riding into the demoralized rear, slashing, spearing and yelling like demons as they rode."

"Entire regiments of Austrians were cut off and surrendered. There was a continuous stream of prisoners day and night toward the Russian rear. Among the prisoners were many German-speaking officers and a thousand German soldiers who had been incorporated in the Austrian regiments."

There are still no official reports of the Austrian losses, but the estimates here, which are considered conservative, place them at 200,000.

Mexican Policeman Attacks American

SAN DIEGO, June 12.—Lured with other Americans in an automobile to a lonely spot a few hundred yards south of the American border at Tijuana, Mexico, W. Thompson, an American resident of Tijuana, was attacked last night by a Mexican policeman.

Other passengers in the automobile were ordered to leave the machine by the policeman, who then whipped out a knife and a club and assaulted Thompson, who, unarmed, fought with his fists, mingling his cries for help with those of the frightened passengers in the background.

Mexican customs officers heard the cries and rescued Thompson just in time to save his life. Thompson was slashed by his assailant's knife.

The trouble is alleged to have grown out of the recent order of General Cantu closing the opium dens at Tijuana. Thompson is alleged to have been instrumental in gathering evidence.

NEW U. S. JUSTICE BEING CONSIDERED

Hughes' Successor Likely to Be Democrat; Appointment
Soon.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The selection of a successor to Charles E. Hughes on the Supreme Court bench already is being considered by President Wilson. Attorney General Gregory probably will be called into conference in a day or two and the appointment may be made within the next two weeks.

It is understood that the President would like to appoint John W. Davis, collected general, but may be deterred from doing so because Davis prepared a number of cases now pending before the department of justice. Several messages urging the appointment of former President Taft have been received, but the President is expected to name a Democrat, since the court now has five Republicans and three Democrats.

Although the Supreme Court adjourns until October, department of justice officials are anxious that a new justice be appointed quickly so that he can give consideration during the summer months to cases pending.

Rearrangement of seats was the only evidence of the resignation of Justice Hughes shown today in the Supreme Court. Justice Vandeventer succeeded Hughes as associate in point of time. Justice Brandeis took the seat on the extreme right of the chief justice, establishing the record of being the first justice to sit only one day in the new member's spot on the extreme left.

BRITISH SHOOTING POOR, SAY TEUTONS

Officers of Teuton Cruisers
Tell of Great Battle in North Sea.

BERLIN, June 12.—Officers of the German cruisers Ebling and Frauenlob in interviews in the Frankfurter Zeitung emphasize that the German ships, the "extraordinarily" had marinership of the British gunners in the North Sea battle. For a long period, they declare the Ebling was exposed to the heavy fire of British dreadnaughts and a single fair hit would have sufficed to sink her, but she was not hit once. The German success, they declared, was due solely to superior marksmanship.

The officers give the duration of the battle as seventeen hours, during fourteen of which the Ebling was continually engaged. Only eight men from the Ebling were lost.

The Frauenlob was engaged from 7 p. m. until 3:30 p. m. and again entered the battle at midnight. At 1 o'clock in the morning the cruiser was struck by a torpedo, the explosion lifting her into the air. The torpedo entered the engine room and exploded there, the ship sinking seven minutes later. Eight survivors on three narrow rafts floated for ten hours, getting back with their legs in the water and with heavy waves washing over them. The cruiser was penetrated by a shell, which penetrated the engine room and completely disabled her, and she had to be left behind. She went down finally, her men fighting to the last.

Zapata Plans Attack on Mexico's Capital

NEW YORK, June 12.—Zapata, considered by Mexicans as the most formidable factional leader now opposing the Carranza government, is equipped with a large body of well-trained men within thirty miles of Mexico City and an attack on the capital is expected at any time, according to Howard T. Francis, an engineer, recently connected with the Mexico City Tramway Company, who arrived here today on the steamship Morro Castle from Havana.

Circulars Denounce Presence of Troops

COLUMBUS, N. M., June 12.—Circulars denouncing the presence of American soldiers on Mexican soil have been issued by the Mexican government. The circulars, according to reports received here last night, are directed to the military headquarters of those towns is said to have complained to General Pershing that men dressed as Mexican soldiers have been running off cattle from his lands.

600 Villistas Routed by De Facto Troops

CHIHUAHUA CITY, Mexico, June 12.—A decisive victory over the Villistas was achieved by the de facto troops of the Mexican government in the Rio Grande district about fifty miles south of Parral has been reported to military headquarters here by General Ignacio Ramon. Only meager details of the engagement were continued in the reports, which said that a battle was fought in Lomas de Buena Vista Saturday which lasted from daylight until darkness and finally resulted in the bandits fleeing before the Carranzista soldiers.

Americans Fly to Pershing for Safety

COLUMBUS, N. M., June 12.—A party of American mining men and several merchants from Chihuahua and Chihuahua City, who had reached General John J. Pershing's camp at Naniquipa, Mexico, on their way to the border to escape persecution by Mexican troops, fled to the presence of American troops. The information was brought here early today by truck drivers from Casas Grandes.

Democrats Would Curb Careers of Justices

ST. LOUIS, June 12.—Chairman William F. McCombs of the Democratic National Committee announced today that he has prepared a resolution to submit to the platform committee asking for a plank demanding a constitutional amendment that would prevent any federal judge from being elected to any other office. The decision is a direct outgrowth of the nomination of Justice Hughes, but it is intended to be so broad that even district federal judges would be barred from other offices.

Rambles Through the Shops

"SOME of the women make you ashamed to look at them," complained an important merchant the other day. He wasn't like the playwright who designed artfully spruce habiliments for the chorus so that the play would pay. Anyhow—these men suffer the pangs of blushing and affronts to their modesty or not—women are going righteously on wearing ever lower frocks. The "high-neck-low-neck" is the title of one variety, and you can call the rest what you please. Summer attire in the hot places of the East has all the effect of a ball gown worn to breakfast, and the result is that a traveler from California experiences a weird shock at seeing the fair ones sail in during the forenoon.

Some of the gowns appear, it is said, to be on the verge of dropping off. That isn't all. While the upper part of the dress is being pulled down, the lower part is being pulled up. The boots are decreasing down to pumps; skirts refuse to lengthen in the least, and the expose that will be general within a few weeks promises to be the most remarkable in many, many decades. An expose more extreme than in the days of powdered courtiers when countesses went about in square necks that would have aroused the vigilance of the police a few years ago.

You will be able to see every lovely creature's clavicles and much more than allian ankles. However, bright history that doesn't match the boots in the future is less brilliant, than it might be.

Of course a few of the bathing beaches and Southern California towns have managed to regulate creation of their bathing attire, but the constitution may be amended so that no women will be permitted to wear a costume more than three inches below the collar bone nor three inches above the knee. There is time back out your blouses all around recklessly!

For every kind of sport and evening thing must be low, that is, around the neck—not morally, you know. And when you're surveying the scene consider these other facts advertised in THE TRIBUNE.

Among the charming and pieces of new furniture seen at Reiner's is a cream-colored "couchette" that property belongs in a house of cream painted woodwork and to a fascinating chateaufort who poured tea in an equally fascinating room. These white articles are the new decorations of birds or flowers, very quaint in design, painted on the top under the glass of the tray. Around the wheels and on the handles run lines of paint in colors. To match the general scheme. Another new tea set, which had come with many other novel bits of furniture was an oval one of Jacobean type, with twisted legs and a top of wicker under the glass. It should be added that the wicker set possessed as one of its charms a small drawer all lined in rose leather for the silver to repose upon.

But there are not the only late modifications of "period" affairs. Beside tea wagons there are, for instance, telephone stands in William and Mary design that neither of these good relics would have known what to do with, and there are most useful telephones of an amiable size that are quite as much worth sitting upon as for giving up to jardiniere.

Instead of waiting until the middle of July, when every sane, unbalanced person is leaving the city, out of town in the shade of a giant palm, or else in a bathing suit, Marymont & Upright are beginning mid-summer sales at this particular minute. And a good reason for some time back has been a rare sale—the is, what's of any value to you. Sales usually have a way of waiting until after you want them to come along. You really want them before you start forth on your pilgrimages for pleasure and conquest.

This is a sale of suits and dresses at very much less than, well, half what they will cost you in not so distant future. Therefore, thirty-one, investigate. There are suits in all the spring and summer suits, but early fall models just out from New York—last efforts of the garment makers before they embarked on a strike that has severely limited the supply of habiliments for the fair of America. However, far from being limited in color or style, these range from a blue cheviot cut in a picturesque way and relieved with white tuques and green and to white frothing gray and black checked wool finished with silk braid edges and a white overcollar. Some of these cost YOU no more than a moderately heavy crepe de chine blouse.

One of the coquettish trifles that might please almost any fluff bride-elect is a wicker serving tray of two stories in height and decorated with a variety of colored flowers forming garlands climbing from the bottom to the top. Bands of color run around the edges and on the upper stage reposes a crackler and cheese dish of glass all painted to match. Below one array of painted glasses for cold drinks of a nature fitted to the guests present. It does not have to be prohibition.

If you wear frills and have no kitchen slaves you should desire to look into the matter of fireless cookers such as Jackson's are emphasizing the necessity of this week. If you don't care to work it yourself perhaps you can interest your husband in trying it out himself, by appealing to his scientific mind and telling him that men have always been the culinary geniuses of the culinary art. The fair apartment house society prepares dinner, places it in the cooler, sets the table, goes out to see the latest star at the movies or plays bridge or sells flowers for neglected infants and then come back to entertain a large dinner party without the slightest symptoms of being overworked. Yes, it has been done. It is done, in fact.

Is somebody going away whom you want to remember with more than a bon voyage floral tribute? One of the most practical mementoes you can discover is a pair of "Pullman" slippers that fold up into a soft little case not more than four or five inches square. By this you know that they're about the sort of thing that appeals to a traveler who is determined to arrange his possessions compactly in the least possible amount of space compatible with comfort and decency. These slippers—at least those Taft & Pomeroy's—may be had for any size or age or sex, and they come in colors of the most brilliant exquisite wash materials. The deep lapel-like frill on an unusual example at this shop brightened at the lower corners into medallions of Nile green surrounded by little sprays of green embroidery. The lace edged these busy ruffles and the soft cuffs.

Black and white checked wool in quantities appears on many of the late summer suits. For instance, on an old black taffeta costume at the Eastern Outfitter Company a circular border a foot deep of this checked wool surrounded the skirt. On the bottom of the Cosack blouse coat a narrow strip of the wool bordered the peplum and the belt, of course, also developed checks. A circular collar dropping down to the waist in front, and the cuffs showed the same tendency, diverted only by a little overcollar of white.

Proper vacation proof clothes, designed to withstand the wild tours of small boys in the chaparral, are perhaps one of the most alluring offerings suggested by Money-Back Smith this week to desperate parents. Khaki suits intended for the trip to the mountains, and khaki shirts for athletic youths furnish the solution to many such a problem. Then for more decorative summers in civilized climes and for persons past the unconquered primitive, there are white flannels and that sort of thing.

Where once there was only the "buff-neck" sweater there now comes a new creation on this idea every day. Cherry's shows an effective specimen of robe crossed off in large squares by black and white stripes. There is a dash of pure rose and a collar of this same hue.

but the cuffs are of the plaid woven down into a double section. A striking silk separate skirt at the same establishment owed its novelty to broad tan satin and narrow green stripes that ran on the bias across the dark blue surface.

The latest in the low-neck, high-neck, friends, is a round topped blouse, backed out generously all around so that it comes out as much on either shoulder as it does in front, and finished with a rim of material that stands straight up toward the sky. Like the rim of a plate-plate. But it is not suitable for the pie-like countenance.

Cool summer blouses of delicate cotton fabric are being seized upon voraciously since every other individual has been wearing crepe de chine for indefinite ages. Tiny pearl buttons running in a vertical line down the back of an ample sailor collar distinguished a diaphanous white voile model just arrived at Cosgrave's. Other attractive details included miniature butterfly embroidery on the shoulders, and a hem that fell into deep folds, and a hemstitched edge finished it.

New player records suitable for beguiling the summer guest and the passerby in the street are among others at the Grand Illusion Company. Before wandering off with the parrot, the fishing rods and ten trunks to your mountain house, you need at least half a dozen fresh Charles Chaplin records for the dance every other evening. And that should keep you busy for today!

The STEINWAY As a Wedding Gift

Aside from its sentimental value, the charm of a Wedding Gift lies in its usefulness and permanency.

There are Steinways in service today that were given as Wedding Presents more than 50 years ago. They have been handed down as heirlooms from one generation to another. About them cling memories dearer than those associated with any other object in the household.

The beauty of its rich sympathetic quality of tone—its resonant, harmonious bass—its sparkling, melodic, treble—its instant response to one's moods, make the Steinway more than a mere piano; it is like an intimate friend who has shared in one's happiness and trials, and, never faltering, remains loyal and true under any and all conditions—a source from which flows comfort, pleasure and inspiration.

Then, too, in choosing the Steinway, there is considerable comfort in the knowledge that it is the best—the STANDARD by which all pianos are judged.

They do it in the OWL factories

IT IS POSSIBLE to make a five-cent cigar by hand, from time-cured, long-leaf filler.

But it isn't often done. It's costly. The makers of the OWL do it. They do even more.

They keep a million dollars' worth of slowly curing tobacco constantly on hand. Every leaf of OWL tobacco is cured naturally—by time. Nothing is hurried—nothing is slighted. Every step is taken as carefully as if you were the manufacturer as well as the smoker.

We know this kind of cigar-making is appreciated by discriminating smokers. The sales seem to prove it.

The Big Thing for Breakfast

And it's BIG in more ways than one.

First, there's that wonderful flavor. The crisp, nutty granules of Grape-Nuts food combine the sweets of whole wheat with the smack of malted barley—a flavor that no mere wheat food can rival.

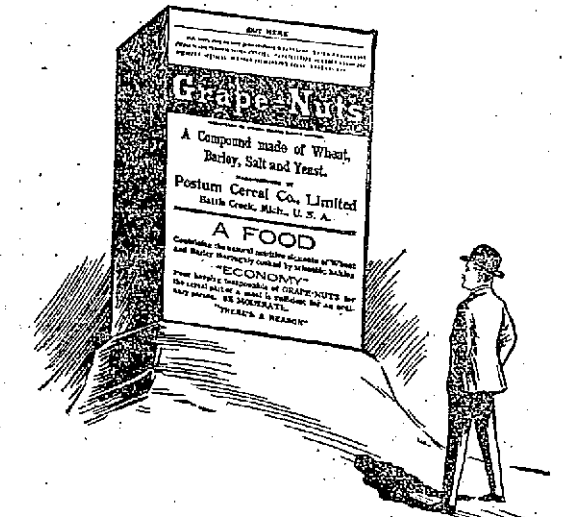

Next comes the remarkable digestive quality. (Malted barley contains a natural digestive element.) Grape-Nuts digests quickly, and weak as well as strong stomachs handle it comfortably.

And then comes the wonderful nourishing value. No other cereal food puts the vim and vigor into body and brain that Grape-Nuts does.

This food-standby tells its own story after trial.

LAVIN LICENSE IS GRANTED BY BOARD

Saloonist Near Infirmary Secures Renewal Despite Protest.

When the application of John O. Lavin for renewal of his liquor license at San Lorenzo Junction, near the county infirmary, came up for passage before the board of supervisors this morning, it was granted by the vote of the board over the adverse recommendation of Supervisor Foss, chairman of the license committee, who filed a minority report of the committee.

It was pointed out by Foss that the license had expired on June 1, and he contended that the board could not grant a new one. When the matter was referred to Deputy District Attorney T. P. Witschen, it developed that the application had been made in time and the board had jurisdiction.

Supervisor Foss moved that the license be granted. Supervisor Kelley, member of the license committee, with Supervisor Foss and Mullins, was absent, and Supervisor Mullins refused the invitation of Supervisor Foss to sign the adverse recommendation.

"It is up to you," said Mullins when Foss pointedly asked him to sign. SPECTATOR EJECTED.

From the spectators' section a voice called out:

"Foss can't vote on that, he is an interested party," whereupon Bailiff Carpenter promptly ejected the out-of-order speaker.

The license was granted by vote of Supervisors Foss and Mullins and Chairman Murphy over the reports of the public welfare board and the grand jury on the proposition of separating the county hospital from the county infirmary.

When the report of the welfare board was read by Clerk J. C. Holland it was ordered placed on file.

Supervisor Foss promptly moved that it be referred to the committee of the whole.

"This is a matter," he said, "that should not be relegated to the files. It demands action."

"It can be filed and taken up at any time," replied Chairman Murphy. "There are other reports on the matter and they may all be filed."

The reports were filed. Whether or not they will be considered by the committee next Wednesday was not indicated.

AUDITORS HEARD FROM.

A communication from the County Auditors' Association, which recently convened at Yreka and adopted resolutions against the proposed federal inheritance tax, was read to the board. It was asked that the board lend opposition to the proposed plan which the United States bureau of industrial relations intends to recommend to congress.

The auditors claim that under the existing state inheritance law a large revenue to the state and the counties would be reduced approximately $1,000,000 if the federal government adopted the measure, as only 50 per cent would revert to the states in which the money would be collected and that amount would be net of expenses. The matter was referred to the committee of the whole and will probably be discussed Thursday.

THIRTY-FOUR residents of Hayward Heights petitioned the board to provide for a teacher for the fall term in the Hayward Heights school, which has heretofore been maintained by subscription. It was stated that the sources of revenue formerly resolved will not be available heretofore. The school has a registration of twenty-four pupils and an average attendance of fourteen pupils.

Applications for renewals of liquor licenses were made by M. J. Caravaggio of Niles, Rose Picano of Ashland and by the Southern Pacific Company for the steamer Garden City, Melrose and Thoroughfare.

SPIES NOW INFEST CITY OF BRUSSELS

Life Not Safe Because of System of Military Informers.

MAASTRICHT, June 12.—Russia at its worst or Constantinople under Abdul Hamid never have been so overrun with spies as Brussels is at the present time. Everlasting espionage has made life a burden for the Belgians and nowhere in the world are the citizens so liable as in the capital, according to reliable information smuggled across the frontier, despite all the vigilance of the Kaiser's secret agents.

The spies are declared to be well paid—but only according to results. They do not draw regular salaries, but get their rewards on the strength of their reports and supposed value.

Consequently, if they have no genuine information to turn in to their superiors, it is charged that they manufacture it. To be accused by them means arrest and much difficulty at the best. It is more likely to mean a long term of imprisonment. It may mean a firing squad. A reign of terror has resulted. Nobody feels safe, even in the privacy of his own home. The people live in a constant state of nervous dread. A tap on the shoulder, prison and perhaps death are in the air. In the middle-class homes alone it is declared there are 1,000 spies. How busy they are is proved by the extravagant style in which they live.

Whenever funds run short fresh victims must be found. Women are numerous among the secret agents. They may be found all up and down the social scale, from the most aristocratic to the demimonde, who sold her position to keep an eye on the most fashionable residences, down to the humblest seamstress or domestic servant. There are officers and professors' wives, who keep watch in middle-class circles. There are the demimonde, who sell their position to keep an eye on the most fashionable residences, down to the humblest seamstress or domestic servant. There are officers and professors' wives, who keep watch in middle-class circles. There are the demimonde, who sell their position to keep an eye on the most fashionable residences, down to the humblest seamstress or domestic servant.

Even the most ordinary working man is carefully watched. A case is reported from the Rue de Picardie, in Brussels, where the driver of a brewery wagon and his assistant were arrested because, after they had unloaded a heavy barrel of beer, one of them remarked: "The Kaiser himself could not have done it so neatly."

MASTER BAKERS OF STATE GATHER

Association Begins Its Convention Tomorrow at Hotel Oakland.

Bakers and food experts from all parts of California are arriving today for the California State Master Bakers' Association convention, which holds its first session tomorrow at the Hotel Oakland and will continue until Wednesday night. Several hundred bakery men are expected to attend the session, which is to be the first of their conventions. Practical methods in large baking operations, pure flour, business conditions, the wheat crop and other matters of interest to the bakers will be discussed.

The convention proper opens tomorrow morning, but tonight the executive committee will meet, preparatory to the general session. A reception will be held tonight in the ballroom of the Hotel Oakland for the guests who have already arrived.

Several special social features will be included in the list of convention activities. These will be under the direction of Frank C. Balbo, chairman of the entertainment committee.

A trip to Lake Chabot and a barbecue will be features of Wednesday afternoon, and on Wednesday morning will be made the choice of the place of the 1917 convention.

President H. H. Murphy will call the session to order tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock in the Hotel Oakland. Mayor John L. Davis will welcome the delegates in the name of the city. John S. Goldie, A. Schwedhelm, president of the local association, Robert Robertson, W. B. Long of the National Association and others will speak.

Tuesday technical and business matters will be discussed in the afternoon, following the opening addresses. There will be an informal dance at this hour in the evening.

Wednesday reports of committees, installation of officers and business matters will be on the program. During the afternoon the automobile ride and barbecue at Lake Chabot will be the features.

BAKERS RECOVER.

Records for quick recovery from a surgical operation were broken, according to local physicians, when Baker, manager of the Hotel Oakland, assumed a chair of his office at the hotel exactly seven days after undergoing an operation for appendicitis.

THE BLUE BIRD FOR THE TRIBUNE

The Blue Bird Bureau of the TRIBUNE has secured in the Santa Cruz mountains a site for a summer camp to be used by the Tribune boys in charge of a trained director, for a period of a week or two at a time. The youngsters will be given a RECREATION camp, the kind that boys love.

THE TRIBUNE is assuming full responsibility, through the Blue Bird Bureau, and is paying the salary of the camp director, recommended by the Oakland Recreation Department. The Southern Pacific Company is making a very generous special rate.

Including the cost of providing tents, a certain amount of camp equipment, hauling and adequate food supplies, we estimate that a boy can be taken to camp, kept there two weeks, and returned safe, brown and happy, for the small sum of $10, or one week for $6. After the initial expense this amount will be considerably reduced.

Swimming, hiking, baseball and Boy Scout work will be the program at the Blue Bird camp. Only boys who would not get such an outing otherwise, will be eligible to go.

Wouldn't you feel better all year if you staked a boy two weeks in the country and no one knew about it but yourself and the boy? Maybe you can get some friends to share with you the expense of sending one boy. If so, please let us know, enclosing check or postoffice order to the Blue Bird Bureau, OAKLAND, CALIF.

The following letter was received by this Bureau. It was written on the back of a sheet paper on the front of which was an advertisement. The paper and the letter together tell the tale of misery.

"I am a married man 29 years of age and want a job. I am a subscriber of your paper and it is my last resort to call for help. I have valued this town for work but all I can get is nothing. I beg today or 'will put your application on file.'"

"I have a wife and baby home that are hungry and the baby has the whooping cough. My rent was up on the 1st and the gas bill is due and must be paid or shut off."

"I don't ask for money. All I want is a job. I don't care what it is—sweeping."

Soda Crackers Carry Munitions, Is Relief

Shipments of harmless appearing crackers, sent to Germany from the United States, there being no embargo on these goods, may have been the means of sending to that country large quantities of munitions, according to a discovery made by Ed Wittenberg of this city.

Wittenberg, who is the owner of a cracker manufacturing plant, was offered a large order from an unknown agency, for crackers of unusual size, with certain ingredients, the nature of which were not explained, but which resembled uranium, placed in the dough. He refused the order.

Experts declare that large quantities of soda crackers have been shipped to Germany, and that the circumstances, alighting some surprise, as the demand was thought to be small. It is believed now by the experts that gelatin, or potash may have been mixed in large quantities with the flour. The matter was reported to the manufacturers' committee as possible explosives for the increased trade in these goods.

Fugazi Sons Will Continue Big Suit

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—Samuel and James Fugazi, sons of John Fugazi, president of the Fugazi Food Bank of this city, who died last week, advised for letters of probate today. The petitioners intend proceeding with litigation instituted by their father for $150,000 worth of property that their mother, Mrs. Johanna Fugazi, had disposed of.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS OFF FOR FRESNO

Thirtieth Grand Parlor Convenes Tomorrow; Civic Question Up.

Numbers of cast bay delegates from various parlors of the Native Daughters of the Golden West left on special trains today for Fresno, where the Grand Parlor of the order will be held beginning tomorrow. This is expected to prove the largest convocation yet held and will be attended by more than 500 representatives from all over the state.

This thirtieth Grand Parlor is to last five days and will be held for the greater part in the Municipal Auditorium, where an elaborate hall will be given tomorrow evening, with the members of Fresno Parlor, No. 137, as hostesses. Numerous other social features, including a reception tonight at the Hotel Fresno, a pipe organ concert and excursions around the city have been planned for the pleasure of the visitors.

CIVIC WORK, THEME.

In addition to the arrangements for entertaining the representatives other interesting features, including discussion of civic work, will be given. The main issue as usual is the election of officers. As it is the custom to give the place of president to the vice-president the chair logically goes to Mrs. Mamie P. Carmichael of the Fresno Parlor, No. 109, San Jose.

This leaves the contest for vice-president the most important one.

On Tuesday morning and afternoon, Thursday night and all day Friday business sessions are scheduled. For Wednesday morning flag day services will be held in Golden West hall, which have been planned and Saturday to be spent in enjoying sports at Zapp's Park.

LEADING FIGURE.

One of the principal figures at the convention will be Mrs. Lily O. Reeling Dyer, wife of John Dyer, the American consul to Honduras. Mrs. Dyer, who is the founder of the order, is greatly interested in the order and noted the fact that of the eleven Congressmen from California only two had been born within the state.

She is firmly opposed to the proposed organization of an auxiliary to the N. D. W. to be formed of members not born in California. This matter is to come up for discussion at the convention.

"THE BLUE BIRD FOR THE TRIBUNE"

"Beads in your hand, keep smiling and lead a hand!" That's the motto of the Blue Bird Bureau. The TRIBUNE'S Department of Good Fellowship. To help others is our motto. To help others is our motto. To help others is our motto.

Without putting a tax on any one to provide happiness swiftly without publicity, to make life brighter and give childhood its full share of joy.

Upon investigation we find that this is a genuine case of misery and one which needs immediate assistance. We are in the letter, at that this man wants a chance to make his own living. Who is going to give this man that chance?

Following is another letter which tells its own story:

"Blagbird Bureau, Oakland Tribune: 'I am a mother of two little kids, ages 1 and 1 years. I have supported the kids for the last ten years, but am now suffering from a nervous breakdown. Financial worries, back rent and scarcity of food are a continual menace to my recovery.'"

Hand to mouth could not compel my husband to provide for us. I was granted a divorce two years ago.

"Being both mother and father to my little ones has undermined my health so now I am unable to work outside. I am anxious to do something at my home, which is a short distance from the Postville avenue car. I have a cheerful, sunny spare room, a good cook and could manage boarding one or two adults."

"Thanking you in advance for any efforts in my behalf, I beg to subscribe myself,

"A GRATEFUL MOTHER."

SEALS IN TANK

Thrill Audience Pantages Offering for Week Is Excellent Summer Show.

The "latest thing" in trained seals, a troupe that performs in the water, is the big offering at the Pantages this week. In a large glass tank where all their movements are easily visible, they demonstrate the seal and sea lion idea of fancy and trick swimming, and show the same sagacity in responding to the suggestion that they do in the seaward ring of a circus. As an "animal" act there has been nothing like it seen here before.

The Six Serenaders are a musical treat. They sing numbers from grand opera and the popular ones and are not handicapped, as frequently such organizations are, by having any unusual voice in their number.

PETER B. KYNE'S FIRST PLAY WILL BE GIVEN HERE

Charles L. Gill, a recent magazine story by Peter B. Kyne, will be his first venture into stageland.

"The Land Over Yonder," a recent magazine story by Peter B. Kyne, will be his first venture into stageland. Dramatized for the stage by Charles L. Gill, a well known actor, it is to be taken to New York shortly.

Oakland will have the first opportunity of seeing the play, as Gill plans to present it for one night Wednesday night at the Orpheum before leaving for New York. Kyne is a Berkeley resident and a member of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce. Several local men assisted in producing the play.

An unusually good photograph was presented yesterday by the Photo Photo Theater in "The Thousand Dollar Husband" in which Miss Blanche Sweet plays the leading role. It is said to be one of the most beautiful photographs of the many in which Miss Sweet has appeared.

The artful devices of the fake fortune tellers and palmists are cleverly exposed in this latest production. As Olga Nelson, Blanche Sweet is seen as the Swedish maid of all work at the boarding house. She is made in love with Douglas Gordon (Tom Forman) one of the boarding house boys lying at the door. Douglas Gordon is a young man who wins his father for money and receives in reply a notice that his father is penniless and that he must leave college immediately.

Olga visits Madam Balavia, the fortune teller, and is informed that she is soon to become wealthy.

She suddenly becomes wealthy, purchases Douglas Gordon as her husband and is made in love with him. This wealthy bride of a loveless marriage is set upon by a band of crooks, and how she is eventually saved and wins the love of her husband is presented in a graphic manner, making this one of the most unusual photographs, gripping in its theme.

The other feature of the T. & C. Oakland Photo Theater double value program included a comedy sketch, "The Greenest Branch," starring Miss Violet Messereau. As "The Greenest Branch," a drama strong in heart and with a plot in the line of the character of the "Greenest Branch," the actress of the play, framed in the gentle and delicate art of picking pockets, Miss Violet Messereau is seen as a young woman who has opportunities for almost every variety of acting, from intense emotion to the lightest part of her comedy. Person after person makes this one of the most interesting and entertaining photographs presented this season.

IDAORA

The United Scandinavian Singers held a musical concert at the Idora Theater yesterday. About 500 were in the chorus, which interpreted the folk songs of the Norwegian, Swedish and Danish peoples. There were several vocal solos, and the program was awarded the gold medal at the Panama Pacific International Exposition last year.

Burnham or Bar Noon, Sandwich Is Sandwich

HEY WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH THIS JOINT ANYHOW? I ASKED THE HOP FRA HAM AN CHICKEN ON RVE AN THE COOB TELLS ME THE BAR IS CLOSED—I SUPPOSE IF I ORDERED A BEER YOU'D FIRE THE COOK!

Hotel Finds Fancy Names Are Sometimes Dan- gerous Luxuries

A ham sandwich is a ham sandwich.

A chicken sandwich is a chicken ditto.

And the mixture of the two doesn't change either.

This is to be the rule at the Hotel

Oakland in future.

Disguising the placid and nourishing ham sandwich under a nom de plume to match the other elaborate names on a menu may be a mark of the clever wit of a chef, but when the chef's dignity extends itself to the free lunch dispensed in the cafe it's going too far.

From now on, therefore, a ham sandwich is a ham sandwich, following an argument the hotel held with David Mahany.

Mahany hurried to his apartment in the hotel last night and immersed himself in a bath, whence he called a waiter and demanded a "Burnham sandwich," by which name—until yesterday—a chicken and ham sandwich combined was known. The waiter retreated and shortly returned apologetically to announce that a sandwich of that sort could not be served in the rooms.

"Why not?" demanded Mahany. "You can serve a plain chicken sandwich here, can't you?"

"Oh, yes, sir," responded the waiter.

"And if I asked for a ham sandwich you could serve it?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, why can't I have the two together?"

"I'll ask the head waiter, sir," and the waiter was going back to his bully. The head waiter arrived.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Mahany," he said, "but it's against the rules to serve the sandwich you want in the rooms."

"All right, then, I'll give up the rooms," announced Mahany, and forthwith went to the telephone and called the hotel desk.

"If I can't get a Burnham sandwich," he began.

"Oh, you can have a Burnham sandwich," the head waiter interrupted, nervously. "I thought you said a bar noon sandwich."

"Well, what in the world is a bar noon sandwich?" demanded the late Mahany.

"It's—ah—the luncheon given without cost to the gentlemen at the bar," the head waiter explained, deprecatingly.

"Oh, you mean the free lunch?"

The head waiter choked a little, but he admitted it.

"Yes, the ah—free lunch."

When Manager Carl Sword heard of the affair, he ordered that free lunch be called free lunch and a chicken and ham sandwich just that—no more disguises. It's liable to cost business.

Hibernians Plan Patriotic Picnic

County President P. B. Mahoney of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and the heads of all branches of the order in the bay cities have drafted tentative plans for the celebration to be held July 4 at Schuetzen Park under the auspices of the county board of directors of the Hibernians, assisted by the ladies auxiliary. It was decided to make the program so spectacular and patriotic that it would come as a fitting climax to the recent preparedness parade to be held in San Francisco Independence Day.

A general committee of arrangements was named with President Mahoney as chairman and State Vice-President Patrick Flanagan as vice-chairman. It was determined to arrange an unusually elaborate program of musical numbers, both vocal and instrumental and of a patriotic character; dancing of the Gaelic variety as well as the more modern tango and Irish jig, with competitions and prizes and also public dancing; games and sports native to Ireland and the United States and with trophies to attract the best athletes of the bay cities.

BIG TARGET SCORE.

SAN DIEGO, June 12.—Twenty-five hits out of forty shots were scored by gunners of the Twenty-eighth Company, Coast Artillery, at target practice with three-inch batteries at Port Pico Pico Saturday night. The firing was at a range of 4000 yards at a moving target. Last year the gunners of the Twenty-eighth scored a greater percentage of hits than any other company in the service.

EAGLES TO PICNIC.

Golden Gate Aerie No. 61, F. O. E., has completed preparations for its annual picnic and Eaglefest, which will be held in Shell Mound Park on June 25 and to which Eagles from all parts of California have been invited.

AN AGREEABLE SURPRISE.

There are many who have no relish for their meals and who must be very careful as to what they eat, that would be greatly surprised if they were to take a few doses of Chamberlain's Tablets. These tablets strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its duties naturally. Hundreds have testified to the great benefit they have derived from the use of these tablets. They only cost a quarter. For sale by Osgood Bros. Drug Stores.—Advertisement.

Fordham University to Have Big Jubilee

NEW YORK, June 12.—The diamond jubilee of Fordham university—the seventy-fifth anniversary of the establishment of this Catholic institution of learning—will be celebrated elaborately during the week beginning today.

Founded by Bishop Hughes, in 1841, and in a place that was then far in the country outside of New York, Fordham has grown from a tiny school to one of the largest and best equipped universities in the land.

Fordham was begun as a result of the

"Know Nothing" movement in the '30s, when that party agitated bitterly against Catholics and insisted upon providing schools for the public schools that were anti-Catholic. Bishop Hughes led the opposition to the "Know Nothings."

Originally known as St. John's college, it was formally opened by Bishop Hughes in June, 1841. The Rev. John McCloskey, who later became the first American cardinal, was the first president, and associated with him were several men who attained distinction.

In 1848 Bishop Hughes learned that the Jesuit college in Kentucky was unable to make any headway. Wishing to place his college in the hands of some regular order devoted to educational work,

Bishop Hughes wrote a letter to Kentucky, pointing out that New York was thickly populated and would give the Jesuits larger opportunities than the south afforded. As a result, the priests came to New York and were placed in charge of Fordham college, which has remained under the direction of the Jesuit fathers ever since.

Encyclopaedia Britannica

"HANDY VOLUME" ISSUE at present BARGAIN prices

And you need a set. You can afford one, if you will order now—immediately. The cost is trifling—only a few cents a day. You often throw away double and triple the amount and think nothing of it.

$1 down brings the whole set—29 volumes—to your home

And then you make small monthly payments for a limited period. That is, if you order immediately.

But after June 17th the price of the "Handy Volume" issue will be raised $11 to $19 per set, according to the binding.

This advance in price is unavoidable. For the publishers of the Britannica inform us that the cost of all materials and labor has increased enormously.

The Best Dollar Ever Invested

In the pages of the Encyclopaedia Britannica you will find inspiration to a finer outlook on life—to a deeper understanding of men and women.

In the twenty-nine volumes of the Encyclopaedia Britannica there is recorded the accumulated knowledge of the whole world of all ages.

Every subject known to humanity is discussed and explained—every historical event is recorded—the reasons for its having transpired illuminated—every science is reduced to its simplest terms, brought within the comprehension of the layman—the story of every noted character is told—the distant spots of the earth appear before you in pictures, in maps and word illustration.

Philosophy, religion, every movement that has either helped or hindered the human race is discussed or explained. Its effect on the present age, on you, on your children and on your children's children is demonstrated.

The "Handy Volume" issue of the Encyclopaedia Britannica is more than a complete library—more than a wonderful set of books—more than a compilation of facts, figures and events—it is essential to your prosperity, to the proper upbringing of your children.

As an Aid to Business

In the Encyclopaedia Britannica you will find expert and authoritative articles relating to your own business—your own profession. They are written by the acknowledged leaders in each particular field—written from the broad international aspect of the subject.

An understanding of these articles as they relate to your business will endow you with a fund of information that if properly applied is certain to win you success. The Britannica provides you the easy, the economical, the efficient method of securing this priceless information.

The big men of business, of finance, of law, of medicine, of the technical professions, all own Britannicas—and consult them.

Why? Because they find the specific information in the Britannica essential to the success of their big ideas, to the promotion of their magnificent enterprises. It acts as a foundation for research work; it furnishes the answer to their difficult problems.

You can profit by the example of these men who have risen to great heights—men like Arthur Brisbane, the world's highest-salaried editor, like Charles M. Schwab, like Charles W. Eliot, Emeritus President of Harvard University—like leaders in every field of endeavor and thought.

Would you become a better, a higher-priced salesman? The Britannica can help you. Would you win promotion as an executive? There are splendid, inspiring, practical treatises on business efficiency, on system, on office routine, on men and women, on methods.

Is your province technical? The Britannica contains the solution to your knotty problems. It covers all technical matters, electricity, mining, mechanical, etc.—brings the late devices and discoveries to your very doorstep.

Does finance interest you? Masters of economics and practical banking promotion explain clearly those fundamentals, without a thorough knowledge of which financial success is impossible.

A Britannica can help every man, broaden every man, enable every man to stand better with his fellow man.

As an Essential to Your Wife

Without proper knowledge your wife could not care for your children—keep them healthy in mind and body—assist in their education, rear them to worthy man or womanhood—be a successful woman.

She will appreciate the limitless store of information that the Encyclopaedia Britannica can furnish. Information on subjects that directly concern her—her work—her function.

The young wife can profitably study the splendid articles written for the expectant mother, and written so she can understand them and realize their import.

Every mother can master the all-important subject of Dietetics from the exposition of the matter in the Britannica, and understanding it she will be the better mother and the better wife.

The Britannica furnishes a comprehensive course in domestic science, in scientific home administration—tells of methods by which money can be saved—by which home can be made a happier, more artistic, more congenial place—by which the food on your very table can be made tastier and more nutritious.

And how can a woman keep close to the children unless she can satisfy the natural desire of every normal-minded child to know? The Britannica enables every mother to be both a mother and teacher to her children. So she retains their confidence and their respect for all time.

The woman who gets the Britannica habit becomes a fascinating conversationalist—interesting to all who meet her. She is versed in the topics of the day. Has opinions—her own, not what some one has told her—and she can back them with facts that cannot be questioned—Britannica facts.

Necessary to the Proper Upbringing of Children

The children love to browse in the Britannica. To them it all appears like a wondrous fairy story, but more absorbing than any ever written. And as they read they are educating themselves, cultivating a love of serious things, of good literature, training their minds for study—an incalculable advantage to them in later life.

The boy who dabbles in electricity, who is always contriving something, get him a Britannica and he will go far with his hobby. Such a boy has in him the makings of a successful man of practical science, if his inclinations be encouraged along the correct lines. But he must be taught the reason for results, and he will find it in the Britannica—find it written so he can read it and understand it.

The Britannica is absorbing, so interesting that the young study it as a pastime, without realizing that they are actually studying.

SALT LAKE SPLITS WITH LOS ANGELES IN DOUBLE-HEADER

Jack Ryan Saves Afternoon Game With His Pitching in Pinch.

LOS ANGELES, June 12.—Los Angeles and Salt Lake divided honors in the two baseball games. Salt Lake won the morning game, 5 to 2, and Los Angeles was victorious in the afternoon, 4 to 1. Los Angeles won five of the seven games during the series.

Jorg was batted out or the box in the third inning of the morning game. He was hit safely four times in this inning. During the series, Jorg was hit before Scoggin was sent in to relieve him.

Walter won the afternoon game for the Angels with a home run in the eighth inning. The two men on bases at the time he stepped into the batter's box helped him to deep center. Salt Lake threatened to win out in the ninth. After the bases were filled and only one out, "Jack" Scoggin hit a sacrifice bunt. The first baseman fanned the next two Salt Lake batsmen and ended the game. Scores:

FIELDING RECORDS SHOW COAST TEAMS ARE WELL MATCHED

Autrey and Barry Head First Sackers; Beaver Outfield Cleanest Record.

For the first nine weeks of the Coast league season, individual fielding records show the various players of fairly well matched, there being no one player in any position who stands out head and shoulders above the rest. Among the pitchers there were fourteen who had played in more than five games without an error, but Coach of San Francisco and Coach of Oakland perhaps had the slight edge on the other pitchers of the league. Coach has handled 47 fielding chances without an error; Martin, who had 48 fielding chances and has handled 47 of them cleanly.

Among the catchers, Rowdy Elliott of Oakland has won the most games, but Hannah of Salt Lake has handled the largest number of fielding chances. In the outfield, the San Francisco Seals leads with 23 games of errorless work behind the plate with Spencer of Vernon second in the percentage column with one error in 22 games.

LEADING FIRST SACKERS.
Autrey of San Francisco and Barry of Oakland are leading the first basemen in fielding work, the former having made only four errors and the latter five. Risher of Vernon and the latter five. Risher of Vernon has made more errors than any other second sacker. Jones of San Francisco and Galway of Los Angeles have the best fielding averages of the third basemen. Harben of Oakland has handled the most chances. Among the shortstops, Coffey of San Francisco has the best fielding average, but Davis of Oakland leads in total chances accepted.

OUTFIELDERS LEAD.
One Portland player and two former Portland players lead the field in outfielding percentage. Willie has the best fielding average among the centerfielders. Buddy Ryan, former Beaver, and now with Salt Lake, has played 43 games in the field. The best outfielder of the league is Walter Doane, former Beaver, and now with Vernon, has played 43 in the field. OLD MONASTERY STANDS IN WAR ZONE

Bulgarian Refuge Belongs to Past Days of Glory.

RILA, Bulgaria, June 12.—The great task of the monastery is about to be finished, said Father Eugenius to the correspondent. "This monastery is the cradle of the new Bulgaria. It is the bridge which spans the period of suffering and subjugation which divides the Bulgaria of today from the great kingdom of the ancient Bulgarian kings." Father Eugenius is the head of the religious institutions of the world's famous monasteries, which is located about fourteen miles from Rila. His predecessors have presided over as many as 300 Greek Catholic monks. Today the monastery houses only thirty-five.

During the rule of the Turks the monks from the monastery were stationed in every Bulgarian town and large village, teaching the Bulgars their language and keeping alive their faith, continued the stalwart superior. "Since then conditions have changed. Today our church has been re-established and the government maintains good schools. With that has passed the necessity of keeping the large number of members we had formerly."

Not all friends. The Turkish sultans were the friends of the monastery. Thus it happened that the exclusion which Ivan Rilsky had sought became time and again the only protection Bulgars from the vicinity had against the perils of war and misrule. The monastery may be reached over a pass from Samokoff, but its principal approach is through a fourteen-mile gorge from the village of Rila. These two approaches could be easily defended by a small number of men.

On just one occasion was the monastery overcome by military force; in 1336 the Serbian feudal lord, Chri, entered it. The tower of the monastery is the monument of his conversion. It was he who erected it.

Three decades ago Rilsky's monastery became often the refuge of the Bulgarian combatants, who had their headquarters in the Rila forests. Even today the monastery is nearly seventy miles from the railroad, as inaccessible as ever, and far removed from the beaten trail.

Militia Will Encamp at Benicia Barracks

BENICIA, June 12.—Major H. W. Bell, commander of the United States army here, announced today that the war department has granted the Benicia barracks for a state militia camp, beginning August 13 and lasting two weeks. About 3,000 militiamen will participate. It is planned, including two regiments of infantry, one cavalry regiment and sanitary and signal corps.

Contract for Sale of Festival Hall Invalid

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—Superior Judge Stewart today denied a restraining order to Sol Schneider against the exposition directors, compelling them to turn Festival Hall over to him for $1,400. The court denied the plea on the grounds that Schneider made the contract with subordinates and that the exposition directors were not dealt with.

Wheelbarrow Is Clew to Fortune

Discovery Leads to Excited Search

STRAWBERRY VALLEY, June 12.—The uncovering of a wheelbarrow in a remarkable state of preservation after being buried nearly fifty years on the "old Strawberry place," three miles east of Strawberry Valley, leads to the belief that the Lytle ledge, which has been sought by miners of this section since the late 60s, has been uncovered. A long time unworked at the same time fell to pieces when the air struck it. C. B. and A. B. Lytle, who are working on the Strawberry place as prospectors, made the discovery. According to early day miners, G. A. Lytle became wealthy from working the ledge that was given his name. He returned to the East for a vacation, and while at his old home he took ill and died. Crystallized gold has been found by the Travis brothers near the place where the wheelbarrow was unearthed, which they hold is convincing proof that the long and the wheelbarrow are the same with which Lytle worked. A. Butler is at present the owner of the Strawberry place, and he has joined with the Travis boys in an insistent search for the exact location of the rich ledge.

HIGH POWER LINE MAY GO TO COURT

Residents of Fourth Avenue Heights Ask Underground Wires.

The courts will probably be asked to settle the dispute between residents of the Fourth Avenue Heights district and the Great Western Power Company with regard to a high power line which the corporation desires to install in that part of the city.

Representatives of the Glen View and Montclair Improvement Clubs appeared before the Council and asked that the new power line be installed underground. Hattie Hall, attorney for the corporation, declared that the cost of this would be excessive. Mayor Davis and Commissioner W. H. Edwards agreed with the club representatives, and suggested that an ordinance be drawn up making the installation of an underground district, whereupon Commissioner Anderson and H. C. Robinson and H. T. Hagen, attorneys, appeared for the complaining club and declared that the property value of the district would be much depreciated should the high-power line be installed. They threatened to take the case into the courts if the corporation started to construct the line. Hall also intimated that the case would be taken into the courts if permission to install the line was not granted.

The council gave second reading to an ordinance appropriating $1500 to pay for the services of an expert for work in the transcription of all matter relative to the city's water from disputes on the estuary. The mayor introduced the ordinance.

Commissioner Anderson told the council that the commission merchants who are seeking a site for their new building south of Seventh street and east of Broadway had announced that they were unable to come to terms in that district, as property owners sought to "hold them up" in prices.

"I move that this matter be continued until next Monday," said Anderson. "If the property owners cannot come to terms with the commission men within that time I will introduce a resolution to take Charles H. Hackett into partnership. On two prior occasions they voted against this procedure, but today reconsidered and voted to permit the action."

"I thought that there was something wrong with these men before, but I have now changed my mind," Edwards said. An appropriation of $100 was refused because the council has voted $2500 for the larger celebration to be held by the Merchants' Exchange.

ASK WRIT IN RECALL

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—Superior Judge Crothers heard the petition for a writ of mandate brought by Attorney Daniel O'Connell against the election board, compelling them to certify the recall papers against City Attorney Percy V. Long. O'Connell presented an amended writ to the court.

U. S. MARINES AND POLICE HAVE FIGHT

Battle Royal Rages in Streets of New Orleans; Cracked Heads Result.

NEW ORLEANS, June 12.—Two hundred marines from the Pacific coast and other sections of the country on their way to Santo Domingo, fought a battle with the police in the streets of New Orleans yesterday.

Thirty marines, every one wounded, were outnumbered three to one, were severely beaten. A woman, one of the marines, was shot by Patrolman Robert Torgler, who said Stakley insisted on hitting one of the policemen with a brick.

The marines from the transport Hancock were in the restricted district. Two were talking to a woman when the police interfered. The marines resisted this and the fight began. Then sounded the clarion call, which the sailor of Uncle Sam knows so well. Marines and sailors piled from the cabarets and dance halls and within ten minutes the street was a moving fighting mass of men. One big Irish marlin knocked down five policemen as quick as they reached him. Another, an Italian, hardly bigger than a small boy, spilled three. Then the police reserves were called.

The marines were unarmed, but the police used clubs. Back and forth the battle waged up and down Franklin street, until the two forces, especially the police, were being battered too heavily. A call was sent to the naval station and communicated by wireless to the Hancock. A big force of marines was sent and they quickly overpowered the police. All of the men were turned over to the government for punishment.

RUSSIA CREATES CHANCE OF ALLIES

Military Expert Says Coordinated Action May Mean Decisive Victory.

(By J. W. T. MASON.) NEW YORK, June 12.—The astonishing success of Russia's drive along the southeastern front brings the time for the allies' western offensive to the test.

Not since the war began have the allies been able to deliver simultaneous "assaults" against the Toulon lines. The allies have thus consistently played Germany's game by permitting the central powers to concentrate their forces against a single enemy at a time—which was the manner in which Frederick the Great won the Seven Years war.

Reports from Rome today announce that the Italians have begun a counter-offensive along the Trentino front. That is an added reason why France and Great Britain should begin to count the days for their united effort to drive the Germans back to their frontier. The Balkan offensive of the allies might well wait, however, until the Russians have brought their drive into Bukovina and thus brought into play the Russian Rumania to join the allies. Such a development would place Bulgaria in danger of being crushed by an attack from two directions and might cause Sofia to agree to a separate peace.

But long delay in the west at this time probably will be fatal to the military ambitions of the allies. If the allies have any hope of being able to subdue Germany with their armies, any moment may see the beginning of the western offensive which now has been nearly two years in preparation.

Seeking Return of Confiscated Pearls

JACKSON'S JOB

Meese Announces Self as Out for Place; Sontag May Run.

That the recall election against Dr. F. Jackson is to be participated in by a number of candidates for the office of Commissioner of Public Health and Safety, is indicated in the early announcement already before the voters. Edwin Meese, appointed to the office of city treasurer, after a term in the city council under the old charter, announced his candidacy against Jackson today, and Charles Sontag, member of the State Prison Board, openly admits that his friends have urged him to enter the lists and that he is seriously considering it.

Meese, who has resided in West Oakland for many years, has been before the voters as a candidate for public office on two occasions. He has not, however, been elected to office since the introduction of the new charter, having held the office of treasurer by virtue of an appointment. His candidacy is endorsed by the Tax Payers League. He defeated Meese in the last city election. In his announcement Meese declares that he is in no way a "machine" candidate.

Sontag resides in the lower Piedmont district, at 280 Grand avenue. He is a manufacturer's agent, with offices at 363 Grand street, but has resided in Oakland some years and is well known. He is 32 years of age.

OTHER CANDIDATES. A new candidate entered the field this morning. He is George M. Simmons, a resident at 3815 Clark street. Simmons filed his nomination of intention to be a candidate with Charles Cummings today. Others who have filed are Creighton and J. H. Grande. School director Harry J. Boyle is being mentioned as a possible candidate, but has not yet declared himself. He said today that he had not yet decided what action he will take.

THEATRICAL MAN IS SUED FOR DIVORCE

Cruelty to Wife and Child Is Alleged as Basis of Action.

Alleging extreme cruelty, Eloise Wright today filed suit for divorce against William M. Wright, former theatrical manager. The complaint was placed on the secret file.

The right complaints that while they were living at the Key Route Inn her husband was at her bedside and inflicted cruelties of various sorts. She declares that he seized her roughly and that their child, Royal, age two years, bears marks of his father's anger. She asks $100 per month alimony.

Mrs. Wright was Eloise Mendenhall of Oakland, daughter of a well known local family, and is at present with her sister in Seattle. Wright is in Oakland.

CHICO WILL MARCH FOR PREPAREDNESS

CHICO, June 12.—Secretary E. J. Paik of the Chico development committee announced that at the meeting of the committee this evening plans for the Independence Day and preparedness demonstration for Chico on July 4 would be discussed.

As company A. N. G. C. and the Second Regiment band will participate in the Marysville celebration July 4, it has been suggested that Chico revive the annual July 4 parade on Monday, the day previous to the band, ledgers, firemen and school children will march in a parade, ending at the Bidwell park grounds, where President William War of the Chico Normal, P. J. O'Brien, A. G. Eames, John H. Quinn, and Dr. Orlando P. Hart will deliver patriotic addresses. Superintendent Charles H. Camper of the school department has agreed to arrange for the participation of 2500 school children in the parade. On the following day Chico will join Marysville in her Fourth of July celebration.

ITALIAN CABINET QUILTS UNDER FIRE

Crisis Caused by Resignation Will Be Short Lived, Is Belief.

LONDON, June 12.—The Italian cabinet, headed by Premier Salandra, resigned yesterday. This action of the ministry resulted from the failure of the Italian chamber of deputies to pass a vote of confidence in the government, following the presentation of the budget of the ministry of the interior.

A Rome despatch received here today by wireless telegraph said the ministerial crisis would soon be ended. All political parties, it was contended, favored a national ministry containing Baron Sonnino, the minister of foreign affairs, and the present military ministers.

ROME, June 12.—All parties agree that the new Italian cabinet must have a national character. It is suggested that it comprise all the leading statesmen with a view to uniting in the supreme struggle all political opinions except that of the intransigent Socialists, about forty of whom oppose the war as a principle. From all sides a rapid solution of the crisis is urged, owing to the gravity of the moment.

Kink Victor Emmanuel, besides consulting Antonio Salandra, the resigning premier, will seek the views of Baron Sonnino, the foreign minister, the president of the senate and the chamber of deputies and the wearers of the collar of the Order of Annunziata, including ex-Premiers Giolitti and Luzzatti.

LAMBERT GIRL'S CHUM IN COURT

Hears Elder Orpet Repeat for Many Times "I Do Not Remember."

COURTROOM, WAUKESHA, WIS., June 12.—Blue-eyed, flaxen-haired little Josephine Davis, Marlon Lambert's most intimate friend, sat in the courtroom today at the trial of Will Orpet for the first time and heard Orpet's father in a succession of "I don't remember" as the elder Orpet testified as a witness for the State.

It was Josephine's first appearance in the courtroom. She is the State's principal witness against Orpet.

The elder Orpet sat steady under Daddy's grilling and answered fully only one or two of the prosecutor's questions.

Will Orpet, on trial for Marlon's murder, smiled complacently as Daddy repeated only in getting "I don't remember" to most of his queries.

"Do you know what was in the letters written Mrs. Orpet by your son on the day Will was in Lake Forest?" Daddy asked.

HINTS FOR AUTO OWNERS

Will you kindly give me the benefit of your advice through your valued columns as to the cause of the following?

I am the owner of a four-cylinder car, 34-horsepower, five-passenger, 1915 model. Up to approximately 6,000 miles the action of the car was all that could be desired, but subsequently when running between twenty-two and twenty-eight miles per hour a very annoying rumbling developed. This rumbling is not apparent below twenty-two nor above twenty-eight at which speeds everything is O. K. I have had the subject up with several mechanics, but none seems to agree on the cause, and would be very much pleased if you would offer some suggestions as to where the trouble may lie.

The action described in this case would indicate unbalance in some part of the engine, and would be very much pleased if you would offer some suggestions as to where the trouble may lie.

Motoring Department, THE TRIBUNE.—I am driving a 1913 Ford which is equipped with two 6-volt 2-ampere headlights. I have wired in a series. Would the magneto generate enough electricity to light the two headlights and at the same time supply current for another series of lights consisting of two 6-volt 33 ampere lights. This, then, will mean that the magneto is to supply 1.66 amperes and also carry on the ignition function. Would there be any danger of demagnetizing the magnets on the magneto if the above were tried? Kindly answer through your columns and oblige.

The magneto should give enough current. There should be no danger of demagnetizing the magnets when over-loaded.

Would the use of soft copper chain carbon removers cause trouble in my cylinders, due to the small distance between the grinding face and plug that carries stud bolt, which holds down the manifold on top of cylinder? If the chain should bunch up it appears to me it would jam between piston and stud bolt plug in the cylinder.

Would not advising holes in an intake manifold. There are three exhaust feed regulations and one air regulator on the carburetor. Reduces the ton-down the auxiliary air valve and cut down the gas flow as much as possible. This will give the same result as is not safe to use chains for carbon removing. Would advise having carbon burned out by the oxygen process. Water injected through the auxiliary air valve in small quantities while the engine is running, and hot, makes a good carbon eliminator.

Motoring Department, THE TRIBUNE.—I have a 1910 Renault and would like to know the valve setting of same. I would like to know the setting of the valves in inches or millimeters, as I am not familiar with the valve.

First set the clearance between the exhaust valve stems and lifter rods about 1/64 of an inch. A visiting card can be used as a gauge. The inlet valve clearance should be about .002 of an inch. Use a piece of thin paper as a gauge. Then a valve crank shaft until exhaust valve No. 1 has just seated. Remove gears; bring piston No. 1 to top center and then release gear. If this setting does not give desired result, proceed as above and give a slight lap—that is, move piston down about 1/4 of an inch.

Motoring Department, THE TRIBUNE.—Would you kindly publish in your columns the proper method of rubbing down brake linings; also the best material to use? I have a six-cylinder, 1913 car, and would like to replace the old linings myself. Also state the proper way to clean old linings and the material to use for brake lining, which has been chemically treated. This material may be purchased at any reliable supply store.

The best method of applying brake lining is to cut the lining to the length of the old ones, spread the ends of the band and put a short stick or wedge between them. They stay the lining on the band and hold it as tightly as possible. Clamp each end and remove the wedge. The lining will then be drawn tightly to the drum. Drill through the holes in the drum and countersink on the lining side so that the heads of the rivets will sink into the lining. Rivets with sixty degree countersunk heads are preferable to flat-head ones.

WOMAN ROOKIE BRAVES BACTERIA

Germ Lesson Goes Unheeded When She Is Hungry After March.

Bacteria had no alarms for one woman at the national service training school for women established out on the Presidio grounds.

After a startling lecture on how innocent persons catch compromising diseases in the most unexpected manner, most of the members of the camp felt great horror when they saw two biscuits roll on the floor at mess time. Not so this large matron of young sixty. When everyone had passed on for drill she paused behind and scarily picked up the biscuits and shoved them recklessly in her size forty-four blouse.

When she looked around she saw a pair of accusing eyes fixed on her. "Ach," she gasped apologetically. "During that long tramp I got so hungry—so hungry. What matters the bacteria to that?"

Someone has made the discovery that in the eastern camps the boards of governors are thickly decorated with suffragists who cannot vote, while in all the enfranchised San Francisco camps can be found only one and one-half suffragists. In the unenfranchised eastern camps the fair ones wear riding breeches and puttees. In the California ones skirts are triumphant. A conclusion has been reached that on stalling suffrage feminine habits are resumed, and that one can be military without being militant.

At any rate the members of the camp across the bay are of all sizes and ages, and while they all wear skirts there has been some competition in arraying the skirts most attractively. One day the scores of the same forth in white gloves and all the others had to be looked over with unusually severe eyes by their officers.

PLANT FLOWERS. There were five handkerchiefs in the pockets of a thrifty stout rookie and she was forced to stuff them reluctantly under the board walk as she strove to mark time simultaneously with her feet. Meanwhile the geraniums continue to grow around the outside of the women's quarters and within easy reach of the unattractive character of the daughters of Eve. Though they are attached to their khaki uniforms, they rejoice when they drop into Geranium crepe blouses after hours of duty.

On the other hand, the eastern camps are taking their military training harder. Miss Anna Morgan, aide to every officer, is a member of the advisory board of Miss Candice Hewitt's military camp at Eureka, N. Y., and many other ardent wavers of the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage flag are drilling away in emancipated breeches.

MR. HUGHES SPEAKS.

In this critical period of our national history I recognize that it is your right to summon and that it is my paramount duty to respond. You speak at a time of national emergency transcending merely partisan considerations. You voice the demand for a dominant, thorough-going Americanism, with firm, up-building policies essential to our peace and security. And to that call, in this crisis, I cannot fail to answer with the pledge of all that is in me to the service of the country.

Thus Mr. Charles Evans Hughes of New York, formerly justice of the United States Supreme Court, is privileged to reply to the call of the Republican party, voiced through the national convention just held at Chicago, to become its candidate for the presidency. The events just preceding and leading up to Mr. Hughes' nomination showed that the representatives of the party realize the crisis in the affairs of the nation which they were called upon to meet. In seeking a leader the convention turned to the man upon whom were directed the thoughts of the rank and file of the party.

The Republican party has always been a party of strong, courageous nationalism, as opposed to the party of provincial sectionalism. It has always inspired confidence when in power in a critical period in our national affairs. Mr. Hughes' statement is the fruit of sober and serious realization of the task before him and the party he is to lead. The spirit of the time and the occasion gave it the tone of gravity and left no justification for any one interpreting it as of the usual political quality. The people of the country of all political affiliations must regard with deep satisfaction the evidence that Mr. Hughes had formed for himself very definite ideas as to the method of approaching vital national issues. His statement of acceptance is in itself an admirable platform.

He stands for the firm and unflinching maintenance of all the rights of American citizens on land and sea.

He regrets that in our foreign relations we have suffered incalculably from the weak and vacillating course that has been taken in regard to Mexico and that we have utterly failed to appreciate and discharge our plain duty to our own citizens.

He desires to see our diplomacy restored to its best standards and to have these advanced.

He stands for an Americanism that knows no ulterior purpose; for a patriotism that is single and complete. He will not tolerate any division of allegiance to the United States because of race or creed.

He is devoted to the ideals of honorable peace and is ready to promote all wise and practical measures for the just settlement of international disputes.

He is for adequate national defense and condemns the inexcusable neglect that has been shown in this matter of first national importance.

He believes our preparation must be industrial and economic as well as military and is therefore in favor of a fair and wise readjustment of the tariff in accordance with sound protective principle.

He is in favor of conserving the just interests of labor, realizing that democracy, patriotism and national strength must be rooted in even-handed justice.

He is in favor of expansion of our foreign trade and against the throttling of American enterprise at home and abroad.

He is for a solution of the serious problems of transportation, of interstate and foreign commerce, in a sensible and candid manner, so as to provide an enduring basis for prosperity, and so as adequately to protect the public on the one hand and on the other conserve the essential instrumentalities of progress.

He stands for the principles of our civil service laws and for demanding in every department of government the highest efficiency.

In addition Mr. Hughes fully endorses the platform which the national convention adopted. These declarations leave absolutely no room for doubt as to the entire acceptability of Mr. Hughes as the Republican candidate for the Presidency. There can be no complaint from any source that the country and the opponents of Mr. Hughes do not know his views upon questions of national policy. His progressivism, his convictions and his information are matters of record.

ROOSEVELT'S ENDORSEMENT.

Next to the acceptance of Mr. Hughes the letter to Progressive leaders in Chicago from Colonel Theodore Roosevelt is of almost equal political importance. It is a splendid lesson and appropriate admonition to political partisans as to their conduct in a grave national crisis such as now exists. It was the Colonel's second attempt to promote harmony between the two conventions. If we have doubted that the Colonel wished harmony along any other line than the one which would lead to his nomination by both conventions, we cannot but admire the frankness and courage with which he publicly addressed the Progressive radicals upon the things nearest to his heart.

"For months I have thought of this matter and for the last few weeks it has been the chief thing of which I have thought, as I feel with all my heart that it is the imperative duty of all of us who wish to see our country restored to the position she should hold to sink all minor differences and come together if, by any possibility, we can find a common standing ground," wrote the Colonel to Perkins, Johnson and their colleagues of the Progressive conference committee. And he continued, "in the statement of the Progressive National Committee issued in January last, and in my statement at Trinidad last February we pledged ourselves to leave nothing undone to reach an honorable agreement with the Republicans in order to achieve the end we have in view."

As a suggestion for bringing harmony about Colonel Roosevelt asked the Progressive leaders to nominate Senator Lodge, a delegate to the Republican convention. The Progressive convention hooted the proposal out of consideration. The Republican convention had closed nominations, and moreover, was determined to carry out the clear instructions of the electorate to name Mr. Hughes.

There is a significance, however, in Colonel Roosevelt's suggestion to substitute Lodge for Hughes that cannot be minimized by the fact that it was not accepted. Senator Lodge, as chairman of the resolutions committee of the Republican convention, wrote the Republican platform. His endorsement for the Presidency by Colonel Roosevelt means that the former leader of the Progressive party endorses that platform. This leaves those Progressives who have followed the lead and who will continue to heed the advice of Colonel Roosevelt without reason or excuse for withholding their enthusiastic support from the Republican nominee.

As the Colonel wrote, "the differences that have divided not merely Republicans and Progressives, but good Americans of all shades of political belief, from one another in the past sink into nothing when compared with the issues which now demand decision, for these issues are vital to the national life."

The Republican platform, by Colonel Roosevelt's own testimony, conforms to his idea of meeting these vital issues. The Republican nominee by the testimony of his letter of acceptance, conforms to the Colonel's idea of the man best equipped to meet these issues. Mr. Hughes in his statement and declaration that he endorses the platform drawn by Lodge, stands for essentially everything advocated by the Colonel and unquestionably will receive his support. It is unthinkable that the rank and file of the Progressives will not join in following his lead.

TRAINING CAMP EXPENSES.

(From the New York Times.)
Unless Congress chooses to confirm the suspicions, already rather widespread, that its members are not quite as representative of the American public as they claim and ought to be, it will heed and act upon the plea made by the Executive Committee of the Military Training Camps Association. What the committee asks is immediate appropriation of the money needed to carry out the provisions of the army reorganization law as to paying the expenses of the men seeking military instruction. Until and unless this is done the camps will be available only for two classes of recruits—those for whom the expenditure of from $10 to $30 out of their own pockets is a matter of no serious consequence and those whose employers are able and willing to subject themselves to a special tax to secure a benefit that is general, not special. It is distinctly undesirable that the attendance at the camps should be thus restricted. They should be in the strictest and fullest sense democratic, open to all young men who have, with an inclination to serve their country efficiently, the only requisite qualifications, and those are not financial, but physical and mental.

Whether or not the amount needed is as large as that for which the committee asks is a question on which there can still be honest and intelligent differences of opinion, but whatever may be the really necessary sum, it should be allotted, and promptly. The problem is one not difficult of solution, and only the pacifists, including those who wear the name because of a sincere delusion and those for whom it cloaks a sinister wish to prevent or delay the country's escape from its present state of unreadiness to meet the possibilities of the future—only these will object to an investment of public money from which profitable returns are sure.

The undeniable chance that these training camps for volunteers may turn out to be only a first step toward what is talked, with more or less of convenience than accuracy, universal and compulsory military service, may provide Congress with an excuse for cutting off or down their maintenance at public expense. That excuse, however, is daily becoming less "colorable" as opportunities for expending the country's feeling on that subject arise and are utilized.

NOTES and COMMENT

Startling declaration in a heading: "The price of fish—it ought to be as high as to insure fair profits to all concerned."

It is commented upon that Aviator Rader fell 400 feet and only broke two legs. As he isn't a centipede the mishap was as serious in this class of damage as it well could be.

The sun's rays started a fire at Chico, as we are informed in a reliable way. Hot old town, Chico. And it doesn't seem to be cooling off with the elimination of Slaughter.

Ogden is to have the next national exposition to take place in 1919, when will be celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the completion of the first transcontinental railroad.

This has been received: "I would like to have you explain to me how United States Senator Underwood can be above-board." Respectfully referred to the expert of the Lumber Exchange or some cabinet maker who has the time.

Despatch from Hillsborough states that a "manless" auto made it from San Mateo to Mount Diablo Inn in 2:35. "Manless" means that a woman drove the machine. They must have sidestepped Centerville and that too to speed, Judge Mattos.

San Francisco Jeweller kills a cat and gets arrested. The cat had killed his fancy chickens. The law avenges the cat, but there seems to be no provision for safeguarding the chicks except the Jeweller, and he breaks the law in doing it. Queer complication.

The Berkeley institution that applies to itself such a name as "Church of the Living God" breaks into notice again in a way that must be real annoying to self-respecting residents of the university town.

This appeared in the Fresno Republican the day before. It reads innocently now: "The peculiar situation that will face the Republican party in the case of the nomination of Hughes and the acquiescence of Roosevelt in that nomination will come from the fact that it will have been Roosevelt who has created the issues of the ensuing campaign and not Hughes."

Somewhat testy item from the Vallejo Times: "Just for the benefit of our esteemed friends at Dixon and other places, we call attention to the fact that the Putah creek bridge construction is again under way. Now, Vallejo is paying a big per cent of the cost of this bridge and we don't derive direct benefits, either."

High-class editorial from the Ukiah Dispatch-Democrat, owned and edited by J. B. Sanford, register of the United States land office at San Francisco: "Republicans can't agree on a candidate, can't agree on a platform, can't agree on what they will do if they get the offices. They have only one agreement—they want the offices."

The Santa Ana Blade puts it this way: "We quite agree with the editor of Pacific Coast Industries that if California wants eastern capital to make investments in this state we must offer it something different from the treatment it has been accorded in the past few years. California slapped capital in the face, and right now is paying the penalty."

An appreciation of Secretary Lane from the Colusa Sun: "Every time there is a vacancy in high political ranks, all the admirers of Franklin K. Lane become excited, talk and rate, and sign petitions to place him in that place as a recompense for his popularity and his services. Never does the Secretary of the Interior intimate that it would please him to jump in and out of the Cabinet or to take a round on the Supreme bench."

"CLEANING UP" SANTO DOMINGO.

So long as American marines remain to furnish protection to the people against the recurring bands of revolutionaries that have been the bane of the country Santo Domingo will have assurance of peace. The taking of Puerto Plata will in all probability break the back of the present trouble. The province of Monte Cristi, of which it is the principal city, has long been the breeding place of revolution against the government at the capital, no matter what brand of "listas" was in power there. For a time there may be rumblings of discontent promoted by politicians aspiring to get their hands into the treasury, but once the masses of the people begin to enjoy the blessings of stable government they will in turn break the American flag.—New York Herald.

SPLENDIDLY EQUIPPED

PRESS COMMENT ON MR. HUGHES

SPLENDID CALL TO ARMS.

The nomination of Justice Hughes as the Republican candidate for President was a sound one. Justice Hughes' declaration in acceptance makes it a brilliant one. The letter is a splendid call to arms. It will send a thrill through the nation. It rings with passionate sincerity and radiates the power of aroused Americanism.

In his case the convention could select but could not make the candidate. What Justice Hughes gave determines the character and foreshadows the outcome of the campaign.—Chicago Tribune.

EXALTED IDEALS.

Charles Evans Hughes, the leader that the Republican National Convention has given us, illustrates in his career and in his public utterances the most exalted ideals of American citizenship, and his election will be of benefit morally as well as materially, to the nation.—Los Angeles Times.

CLEAR ON AMERICANISM.

The telegram from Justice Hughes accepting the nomination, is as strong and clear a statement of Americanism as anybody could wish. It compares favorably with anything that has been said on the question by Roosevelt or Wilson, and it has all the advantage of novelty. The first impression of yesterday's developments is that the threatened split

THE LANGUAGE ISSUE IN CANADA

A case of peculiar interest to Canada, in that it involves the issue of bilingualism, is to be heard in a few days by the superior legal tribunal of the empire, the Imperial Privy Council. The question arises out of the claims of some supporters of separate schools of Ottawa that the children of French speaking parents have the right to be taught in their own language in the region that formerly constituted New France and that certain regulations of the province of Ontario improperly limit or proscribe this right. The subject of study and of language instruction of the Dominion is entrusted to the provincial legislatures and departments of education and is secured to them by the foundation statute of the confederation, the British North America act. Backed by this the Ontario government insists that the teaching of French is not a right but a convenience, and that as an official language French, so far as the province of Ontario is concerned, has no legal standing. It will be seen from this that the case concerns the language question of the whole Dominion.

Bilingualism has been one of the vital issues in Canada for years. Conditions made it so. French or English may be used in pleading in court or in Parliament, and both languages shall be used in records and journals of the House and the Legislature of Quebec. But Quebec has gained still further concessions; all forms and records of the government, money orders, postcards, custom entries and similar documents, are now in the two languages. It is also insisting that Federal officials whose duties are with

JURY INSANE,

Two Weeks to Argue
Writ

"When I said that the judge and the attorneys were lunatics, I forgot the jury," remarked Judah Benjamin, convicted of the death of Policeman Robert Gushe, in the Superior Court today when sentenced to a life term in Folsom. "I respect gray hairs, but still there is no fool like an old fool."

Benjamin asked a new trial, which was denied by Superior Judge F. B. Ogden. Ogden, however, granted him a writ of probable cause and suspended sentence two weeks to argue the case.

Benjamin appeared in court with his attorney, Henry Skinner, to receive sentence after conviction of murder in the first degree with a recommendation for life imprisonment by the jury. He was carefully groomed to hear his doom, which he took calmly, and then motioned for a new trial.

Judge Ogden, who throughout the trial had often assisted the defense in bringing out points when Benjamin, who insisted on questioning witnesses himself, had confused issues, discussed the case frankly, declaring that Benjamin should ask a writ, and giving him other legal advice.

Benjamin was accused of killing Policeman Robert Gushe at Twelfth and Clay streets. He was identified by J. Grandin, stage manager of the Orpheum, who saw him from the stage door, and by several others. He was arrested several days after the shooting in San Francisco, when, it is declared, he tried to kill another policeman. The trial was sensational. Benjamin acted often as his own attorney, questioning witnesses, reading them portions of the State laws, and declaring that powerful interests had been seeking his life. He placed Victor McElroy on the stand to ask if the Chamber of Commerce had plotted against his life, and otherwise sprang oddities in his conduct of his own case. No insanity plea was made.

Hyde Faces New Land Fraud Charge

Frederick A. Hyde, who was released a year ago from an estate federal prison, where he served a sentence for fraud in locating government lands, was today made defendant in a suit filed in the Superior Court by Frederick Browne to recover $944 alleged to have been paid Hyde on contract in July, 1892, to locate for plaintiff 472 acres of land in the State and obtain patent on same.

According to Browne, he agreed to pay a total of $4 an acre to Hyde for his services, but never obtained the land and Hyde failed to return to him the amount paid. He says that it was not until October, 1912, that he learned that the land could not be obtained and at that time he made demand upon Hyde for the return of his deposit.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Captain Hans Tauscher, husband of Miss Gadski, Wolf von Igel and others, must go on trial for a plot to destroy the Welland canal.

Tauscher and others are indicted for having set on foot a "military enterprise" to destroy the Welland canal. Judge Wolvorton ruled that the indictments sufficiently charge a crime under the laws involved.

Oakland has been made the operatic center of the west, and already there is a long waiting list of applicants, mostly finished singers, seeking practical operatic experience in the big English opera company, shortly to be opened at the Auditorium theater under the direction of Paul Steinhardt, choragus of the University of California, and Carl Schulz, former director of the New York Grand Opera Company. The singers, considering a chance to sing to be the best of practical opera training, are clamoring for places in the chorus or small parts in the various operas to be presented, and many applicants have had to be turned away.

That California can produce singers that rival any in the east or Europe is Steinhardt's declaration. "It is remarkable," he declared, "that so many unusual voices have been found in the bay cities. We have found almost every type of voice, and this opera will afford excellent schooling for these local singers."

Among the singers are Miss Sonia Leure, who will be heard in a number of leading parts; Miss Marian Coyle of Berkeley; Miss Lee Lavitt of Berkeley; Miss Edith Jung of Alameda; Mrs. J. Krug of Alameda; Miss Helen Craven and several others. The season will open at the Auditorium on June 19 and will continue for five weeks.

H. K. Love of 570 Fairmont avenue has been awarded the $250 prize offered by the National Security League in its second prize contest for the best essay on "National Security as it Involves the Preparation and Use of the Citizenry." The essay has been printed by the league and sent broadcast from its offices in New York.

"Certainly not since the months preceding the Civil war has the nation thought so much," said Love in the essay, "as its thought has been centered upon a single subject. The question is always, is it necessary to prepare for national defense; if so, to what extent, and how? What policy our government should adopt for 'security' is the most important question since that of chattel slavery. As finally decided, it may prove special for good or ill. If we do not arm, it is possible we may thereby aid in making an end to war. If we arm, and by so doing safeguard popular government, American ideals and the white race, we may, and most likely will, be heat helping the cause of universal peace under Caucasian leadership."

OF PREPAREDNESS.
"If, then, it be conceded that wars are not about to cease, and we are not to be exempt therefrom, that to arm is probably to help the cause of universal peace, and is necessary for our own welfare and in order that we may do our duty to our race and to civilization, the way is cleared for the consideration of our security and the use and preparation of the citizenry therefor."

Later in the essay he writes:
"We fervently believe that American ideals are a need of the world and should be cherished and developed. We believe, notwithstanding manifest shortcomings, that America holds the best hopes of mankind. Such being our conscientious belief, our plain duty is to preserve and defend our land and our institutions to the uttermost; any other conception of duty is out of the question."

Love advocated the merit system, of promotion among officers and men in the several districts, schools where teaching be molded along civic and governmental lines with military training enforced. Drilling of recruits, he says, should be made compulsory in all cities and universal training should be taken up with a hearty determination by the male populace.

Quests for Estates

Seekers after the estates of relatives and friends have become so numerous that County Clerk George E. Gross is considering establishing a new department in his office which will search records and answer queries.

Numerous letters have been received recently by Gross from persons who inquire about the size of estates and the nature of bequests. Many claims of relationship have been made by persons far and near.

One woman wrote that she had a friend who knew a friend who was a relative of a deceased woman, she believed, and perhaps the relative had something coming to her that she did not know about.

Another woman wrote that she understood that a certain man had left only $1,000, but she believed his estate should move to be worth $2,000.

The discrepancy might be explained in that the portion of his estate probated in this county only amounted to $1,000 and such information as this County Clerk Gross has been busy giving.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Inquiry into the advance in the price of gasoline was begun today by the Federal Trade Commission, with representatives of the principal oil producing concerns on hand ready to testify.

The commission already has completed a preliminary tabulation and analysis of the data collected by it on the gasoline situation, and the present hearing is the conclusion of its investigation.

Commissioner Harris presided today. Appearing before the commission to explain their side of the case were representatives of the Standard Oil companies of New Jersey, New York and Ohio, the so-called independent refiners of Ohio, New York and Pennsylvania and the Western Oil Jobbers' Association.

The commission was prepared to inquire among other things into the alleged failure of the Standard Oil companies to compete with one another and into reasons for wide price variations in different parts of the country.

Chairman Lee declared the attitude of the men made it impossible to proceed, and he ordered an adjournment until the afternoon, when he would announce, he said, whether the railroad will continue with the conference or not.

Society and Poetically Inclined

An unusually pretty summer wedding took place at noon today at St. John's church in Berkeley, where Miss Ruth Curtis was married to William Lebe of Sacramento. There were baskets and clusters of flowers about the church, and only 100 guests to witness the ceremony. Later the wedding breakfast for 100 was served at the Hotel Oakland.

The bride was charming in a dainty costume of pale pink Georgette with a pink sash and hat with broad brim. She carried white flowers. Miss Dorothy Curtis, who was her sister's only attendant, was in white georgette and pale blue tulle with broad white sash and hat, and her bouquet of white flowers. The bride is one of the popular girls of Berkeley society, who was graduated a few years ago from Miss Head's school in Berkeley. The groom came from the University of California, and belongs to a well known Sacramento family.

The honeymoon will be spent on a motor tour of the South and later the young couple will go to the Lake Tahoe home at Lake Tahoe for several weeks. Their home will be in Sacramento. Mrs. James Lebe, mother of the bride, and Miss Dorothy Curtis will close their Berkeley home and leave on June 25 for New York, to remain indefinitely in the East.

The wedding will take place at the bride's home in Euclid avenue and seventy-five guests will be present. Rev. David Pitt will be the officiating clergyman.

GARIS' BEDTIME STORY

ROMAN D. GARIS

As Uncle Wiggily Longears, the bumpy gentleman, was going along, through the woods one day he passed a big hollow stump.

"Why, that is larger than my bungalow," he said to himself. "I wonder if it would not be a good thing to have a chimney built up this, some lace curtains put up at the windows, and then I could live here. I believe I'll look inside."

Just as Uncle Wiggily was going to hop into the stump he heard near it a voice crying:

"Help! help! Oh, help! Will some one please help me?"

"Why, yes, of course, I'll help you," the bumpy gentleman answered. "That is, if you can get out of the hollow stump."

"I am neither one," spoke the voice. "I am a poor old snapping turtle, and I had a fox turned me over on my back, just because I pulled my legs head and tail into my shell so he could not bite me. But here I am, over on my back, and I can't turn right side up."

"Oh, dear me, such trouble!"

"I don't worry," said Uncle Wiggily in his most jolly voice. "I'll soon get you out of trouble. Only the other day I turned another mud turtle over when he was on his back, and he kindly gave me some green rushes that Mother Goose could use to stuff her turkey."

"I heard about that," spoke the turtle, who was on his back behind the big hollow stump. "That snapping turtle, my cousin, I am a snapping mud turtle, though, and I have very strong jaws for biting out, of course, the wood of the stump for the wood, and though I have a green rush to give you, if you will kindly turn me over on my back, I'll do you a favor if I can."

"I'll do you a favor if I can," said Uncle Wiggily politely. "I like to do favors."

"The turtle turned over on his back, and the hard-shelled creature, after thanking Uncle Wiggily, quickly crawled inside the big hollow stump."

"Oh, do you live in there?" asked the bumpy gentleman in surprise. The turtle answered:

"I am thinking of moving in here, myself, with Nurse Jane, my wife, Longears. But my own hollow stump bungalow is good enough for us."

"I am sure you will find the hollow stump a very comfortable place, but he did not call turning the snapping mud turtle over much of a hardship."

PORTLAND, Ore., June 12.—Lieutenant Otto Neufeldt, Austrian army officer, who fought at Lemberg, was captured by Russians at Wersaw, escaping from Sibbia on a ship bound for Tacoma.

Neufeldt was placed in jail here last night as the result of his persistent pursuit of Miss Martha Straight, a young woman of Tacoma, who had fled to Portland to escape his attentions.

Neufeldt fell into the hands of police when he answered a decoy letter sent by Detectives in reply to a missive he had sent the girl, who took refuge with the mission here.

Miss Straight remained here a few months after several days ago. The mission workers here refused to let Neufeldt see her, but he learned her address.

He asked her to write to him, and she did so, but the mission workers refused to let him see her. He speaks eight languages and is 28 years old. He says he is a graduate of a military school at Vienna.

Neufeldt changed to yet another address, but it is alleged he came to police attention when he told one of the mission workers he would force it on her.

Miss Straight is a mission worker in Tacoma.
